BURIED!

Dorchester Drifts—As Death rode the wings of the winter's worst blizzard, thousands of autos, buses and trolleys were stalled throughout the Boston area . . . stalled under the drifts of a 16-inch snowfall. And here is Neponset ave., at Blackwell st., in Dorchester.

FLAMES ADD TOLL TO STORM HAVOC

Fire added its toll today to the havoc wreaked by the blizzard, sweeping through a Dorchester dwelling from which 13 children and seven adults were rescued and causing heavy damage in half a dozen communities.

Boston firemen were ordered on 24-hour duty as the city faced its gravest fire hazard in years—the twin dangers of a northeast gale and streets choked with snow and stalled automobiles.

In Dorchester fire following an explosion raced through a three-family dwelling in Adams st., trapping all the occupants.

Volunteers raced through the building, leading mothers and children to temporary haven on porches until apparatus pushed through the drifts and raised ladders over which the occupants were carried to safety.

SAVES FAMILY OF 6

John M. Doherty of Fenton pl., Roxbury, an expressman, rescued Mrs. John Sloan and her five children by gathering them in a rear room and directing the erection of ladders. He has been moving the family's furniture into their new home on the second floor when the fire broke out.

Mrs. Catherine Buckley and her five children were carried to safety from their third floor home, as were Mrs. William F. Snow and her two children from the first floor.

In Haverhill, Alfred Lachey and his three grandchildren fled into the storm and took refuge in a barn early today during a fire that eventually destroyed the dwelling.

Forced to shovel their way in the outlying section, firemen were so long delayed that the flames were able to gain great headway.

Firemen from seven communities battled three hours before bringing under control a blaze which roared through the Bell building, menacing the center of the Stoneham business and tenement district.

Apparatus which pushed for miles through drifts was halted by 400 automobiles stranded in Stoneham sq., and hoses were laid for more than 500 yards to reach the building.

SWEEP BUILDING

The fire was believed to have started in the K. of C. Hall on the third floor and destroyed the hall, offices on the second floor and four stores on the ground floor.

Flames licked at the adjoining Masonic and Hanks buildings, but water curtains prevented serious damage. Two families living in the Hanks building were assisted to the street.

In New Bedford fire destroyed the furniture store of Louis B. Bowen at Campbell and Cedar sts., with an estimated loss of $30,000. Fire apparatus was delayed by the almost impassable streets.

At Lexington, G. E. Fillmore of Hawthorne st. sat in a stalled police car and watched his $10,000 home burn down today, with fire apparatus unable to reach it on account of drifted snow.

Mrs. Fillmore, awakened by crackling of flames, fled half-clad and joined her husband, whom police had brought from his place of employment. He is a night worker.

FINNS CALL UP 2D CLASS OF RESERVES IN 24 HOURS

HELSINKI, Feb. 15 (AP)—Finland called another class of reserves to the colors—the second in 24 hours—today as furious fighting on the Karelian Isthmus was reported to have cost the invading Red army 3500 dead.

Fierce Wind Predicted As Skies Clear

Clearing conditions, accompanied by fierce north winds which may continue to pile up large drifts, were predicted for today by weather observers.

At the East Boston airport observatory a snowfall of 16 inches was reported at 8 a. m. today, with moderation in wind velocity and density of snow noted at 10 o'clock.

At the peak of the gale the wind struck Boston with a speed of 50 miles an hour recorded at the Blue Hill Observatory.

This was the strongest "blow" in Massachusetts since the 1938 hurricane, officials said.

In Boston the average wind velocity was 16 miles an hour, but during gusts it reached a 70-mile-per-hour rate, U. S. weather officials reported.

A sharp drop in temperatures is forecast for tonight with the thermometer expected to go down to 15°. High winds are expected to continue for the next 24 hours.

The "official" snow fall for Boston was 14 inches. The weatherman said Boston missed the center of the storm, or conditions would be worse than they are.

The class of 1896—men 43 and 44—was called up for service against the Russians, who sent a squadron of 27 planes dropping over Helsinki today to cause the capital's first air raid alarm in weeks. No bombs were dropped, however.

Instead, they were reported to have roared to the town of Riihimäki, about 20 miles north of Helsinki, and bombed it heavily, starting numerous fires.

A Finnish communique described heavy fighting on the Isthmus front, now in its 15th day of battle.

and declared Russian attacks had been repulsed on numerous sectors.

A thousand Russian were killed while attacking over the ice at Muolajarvi and 2500 in a series of blows near Taipale, at the eastern end of the Isthmus front.

In one of the attacks the Finns said they captured two tanks, turned them around and put them into immediate service against the Russians.

Thirteen Russian tanks were said to have been wrecked in the attacks.

On the Summa sector, where the Russians have concentrated some of their heaviest blows against the battered Mannerheim Line, continued enemy attacks were repelled, as were other assaults northward.

10 Die, Thousands Marooned As N. E. Digs Out of Blizzard

With ten storm deaths listed, downtown department stores closed, rail and auto traffic crippled and tens of thousands of persons still marooned at home or in the city, Boston and the rest of New England began digging itself out today after its worst blizzard in more than a decade.

In a precedent shattering move to avoid further congestion in drift-clogged downtown streets, police halted all in-coming auto traffic, turning back Boston-bound machines outside the city limits.

This action was taken after a weather bureau announcement that a sharp drop in temperature was in prospect with likelihood that the mercury might fall to 10 or 12 above zero before nightfall.

Police and city officials feared that a severe freeze-up would block Boston and suburban streets indefinitely by preventing removal of the hundreds of autos, buses, trolley cars, trucks and milkwagons stalled in drifts and half buried by the blizzard.

Shortly before noon, City Public Works Commissioner George Hyland sent out a call to all unemployed men who wanted work. He said any man who had a shovel should report to the nearest city yard for immediate work.

Suddenness with which the gale-swept snowstorm struck immobilized most auto and rail traffic almost at once, reducing the total of serious highway accidents.

Deaths and collapses from exhaustion were reported in growing number, however, and officials of the three states hardest hit by the blizzard estimated loss of life and property damage to be most extensive since the hurricane of 1938.

FOOD SHORTAGE LOOMS
A serious food shortage loomed in many Greater Boston communities, where milk and grocery deliveries were completely halted and neighborhood stores remained closed through inability of managers and clerks to reach them.

Small variety stores, where proprietors lived near-by, were sold out of fresh food and milk within less than an hour of their opening time this morning.

Police said many mothers with large families of children asked aid in obtaining nourishment for them.

Snow-banked airports grounded all commercial planes, halting service in and out of the city.

Coastwise shipping, caught by the blizzard, scudded desperately for shelter, with Coast Guard vessels answering many distress calls.

SEEK WPA AID

Acting Mayor William J. Galvin communicated with Senator David I. Walsh and Congressman Thomas A. Flaherty of Charlestown, in Washington, and they were attempting there to get permission for Boston to use 9000 WPA laborers and 400 trucks on snow removal.

To Galvin it was reported by Supl. of Supplies John A. Breen that if the streets are opened within 36 hours the storm will have no effect on city institutions. Hospitals

Closed Hub Stores To Open Tomorrow

Downtown stores, forced to close today, will be open for business as usual tomorrow, the Retail Trade Board announced.

Department and other stores were unable to open their doors today because the breakdown of transportation facilities due to the storm made it impossible for employees to reach work.

Many other business houses closed also because of the storm.

STORK LOSES SEVEN RACES IN BLIZZARD

It was a pretty discouraged stork who flapped back to his chimney roost today—badly beaten in seven hospital races through the wild storm, while winning out in only two and claiming a third win that was questionable.

Doubly discouraging it was to the stork, because on one occasion he was beaten by triplets.

At 2 a. m. today, Frank M. Gambale of Hutchinson at. Revere, called the Revere fire department for help, stating that his wife was ready to go to the hospital—but how should they get there?

Firemen hauled out the emergency fire department truck, which opens in the rear, and husband and wife were placed in the rear.

Revere General Hospital was only three-quarters of a mile away, but so heavy were the drifts that after fighting through the storm for an hour and a half, the fire truck bogged down.

It was necessary to transfer the expectant mother to an open city plow-truck. Four men on the truck immediately stripped off their coats and held them as a wind-break for Mrs. Gambale as the plow took up the task of reaching the hospital.

After another hour and a half of battling, the truck reached the hospital, and at 3:55 a. m. a girl arrived, followed by the first boy at 4:06 and the second at 4:15. All are reported as doing nicely.

CARRIED OVER DRIFTS

One hour later, Mrs. Margaret Meehan, 26, of Woodlawn st., Jamaica Plain, was carried 300 yards from her home to Forest Hills Hospital by her two brothers while the storm raged.

Less than an hour later she became mother of a girl.

Police had been asked for aid but got only as far as Eliot st. monument in Jamaica Plain before

Ask Motorists to Keep Off Roads

The State Department of Public Works today asked all motorists possible to keep off roads and highways until tomorrow in order to facilitate snow removal work.

Department officials said 600 trucks and 1500 men worked all night on main highways which are open but in many cases only wide enough for one car.

Record snowfall was recorded at Ashby and Littleton—34 inches.

Other depths reported were Connecticut Valley district, 15 inches; Berkshire county, 16 inches and Middlesex county, 12 to 14 inches.

FIGHT WAY TO FARM MURDERS

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 15 (INS)—Police and physicians struggled through snowdrifts six feet deep today to reach an isolated farmhouse where two men were reported slain and the wife of one was injured trying to protect her husband from a shotgun blast.

Early reports said that Ralph Caldwell, 35-year-old farmer of South Kilbane township, seven miles east of Washington, was killed and that his wife was forced to take the other man's life when he placed the shotgun against his chest and commanded her to pull the trigger.

State police said the second man was Glenn Plant, 28-year-old farmhand who was discharged by Caldwell last Thursday.

Lester Phillips, 16, another employee on the Caldwell farm, said Plant appeared at the house last night with a shotgun and asked for Caldwell.

When the latter slammed the door in his face Plant fired through a window and killed him, police quoted Phillips as saying.

Mrs. Caldwell was wounded when she threw her arms around her husband's neck in a vain attempt to protect him.

Judge Walks 8 Miles to Court In Storm

The wheels of justice churned sluggishly in snowdrifts today, but major sessions in Suffolk and municipal courts carried on.

Features were a judge's eight-mile hike to work and the march of prisoners from Charles st. jail to trial.

Court was called to order in Suffolk's Probate Court at 10:15 a. m. after Judge Frederick J. Dillon walked from his home in Jamaica Plain to Pemberton sq. Judge John V. Mahoney was in his Suffolk Probate session shortly afterward following a long and delayed journey by trolley.

The courtroom of the first session of criminal courts presided over by Judge Harold P. Williams was flooded after high winds smashed a large window. A crew was put to work to mop it up.

While Judge Jacob Spiegel waited patiently in municipal criminal court, guards marched prisoners from Charles st. jail through drifts and wind to court without a mishap.

Informed through the columns of this paper that a Boston philanthropic agency had promised to furnish him with employment, "Most Despondent" telephoned the editor of the Boston Evening American.

"SHAKES DESPAIR"

In a voice shaken by emotion, he stammered:

"I don't know what to say. I'm like a man brought back to the sunlight after being trapped in a tomb of black despair."

"Prospect of a real job, at last, has me all excited. I've been sick with a cold, and now I'm weak with the shock of getting this good news."

"You needn't worry. I won't carry out my suicide plan. Life looks good, all of a sudden. I'm getting back my faith and my ambition."

"I'll be in to see you at the American office bright and early Thursday!"

"Fate's got two strikes on me, just at present. But I'll come back, thanks to the opportunity that's offered me."

Expressions of sympathy and messages of encouraging advice continued to be addressed to "Most Despondent" today, through the Boston Evening American.

JOBLESS BUT HOPEFUL

A letter signed, "Hopeful, Though Unemployed," said in part:

"Dear Most Despondent: "Don't be discouraged, but know you are one of many. I've been doing the same as you for many months, hunting a job from place to place and going hungry meantime."

"There are plenty of unfortunate like us with empty stomachs and fading hopes."

"But suicide, whining, complaining—never! We carry on with faith in God and faith in this young and glorious nation of ours. There are always better tomorrows ahead of us."

"Here's a little verse I wrote after a bad day. Maybe it will help you."

"Don't sit and grumble, there's nothing in it."

"Just keep on trying, don't stop a minute."

"Keep right on trying, keep wearing a smile."

"You'll find it lightens each weary mile."

Dies Board Begins 'Red Shirt' Probe

Testimony of several Harvard students on the activities of the Yankee-American Action, described as a Fascist "Red Shirt" organization, will be presented in Washington today to the full membership of the Dies committee.

Whether Harvard students will be summoned to testify before the committee depends on action taken in Washington on his report, George Hurley, Dies investigator, announced before he left here after a whirlwind visit to the college and a conference with student editors. Shortly after Hurley left following a two-hour conference at the Harvard Crimson building, Edward Holton James of Concord denied charges the group is anti-Catholic and said he "guessed" he was one of the leaders.

MEETINGS BANNED

James also said he had not seen or heard from Hurley during the day and that he had been available at his home. Hurley said he made repeated attempts to contact James by telephone but found the line busy.

Charges made by the Harvard Crimson, undergraduate newspaper, that the "Red Shirts" were Fascist and Anti-Catholic led to college authorities barring the group provisionally from holding further meetings at Phillips Brooks House.

Present at the meeting were Spencer Klaw, '41, president of The Crimson; Alfred J. Gilbert, '41, managing editor, and Joseph P. Lyford, '41, junior editor, whose clever investigation uncovered the workings of the Y. A. A.

CONTINUES PROBE

Secrecy surrounded the developments of the meeting, but it is understood that Hurley carefully "weighed" the charges of "anti-religion, bigotry and un-Americanism" submitted by Lyford.

Declaring that regulations of the Dies committee forbid him to discuss his investigations with the press, Hurley nevertheless told a Record reporter that it was likely that Harvard students would be asked to testify before the Dies committee in Washington.

Hurley classified the Harvard students as a group as "a swell bunch of fellows."

"I want to make it clear I am not here to investigate Harvard University in any way," Hurley said.

"How far this situation develops depends upon what happens during the next three days."

Hit Oil Profits Of Long Backer

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 15 (AP)—New turmoil was thrown into Louisiana's gubernatorial campaign today by release of a government report asserting that Mayor Robert S. Maestri, political boss of state administration forces, made "large profits" as a result of excess oil production in the state.

Maestri is backing the candidacy of Gov. Earl K. Long, brother of the late Huey P. Long, in next Tuesday's second Democratic primary against Atty. Sam Jones of Lake Charles, "reform" candidate.

A Department of Interior report said that during the time Maestri was commissioner of conservation and after he was succeeded by William G. Rankin, 3,111,511 barrels of oil were produced in the New Iberia field in excess of the amount allowed by state law.

ELOPERS OUTWIT DEB'S MA

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 15 (INS)—Edward H. Fowler, New York millionaire and former husband of Gladys George, and his bride of a day, Susanne Harris, Detroit debutante, were honeymooning in Nevada today following their gay elopement in which they outwitted the bride's mother.

Even as the couple was racing from Hollywood to Las Vegas, the girl's mother, Mrs. Frederick Harris, was on the telephone talking to Police Chief Frank Wait of the Nevada city, it was learned.

Wait said he told Mrs. Harris he would see what he could do, but as it turned out he couldn't do anything.

For Miss Harris and Fowler came into Las Vegas at 3 a. m. and they had little trouble obtaining a marriage license and getting married by Justice of the Peace George Marshall, who, 24 hours earlier had been routed from bed to marry Lana Turner and Artie Shaw.

Miss Harris, aspiring to a screen career, came to Hollywood with her mother after the Christmas holidays.

On Tuesday, a friend of the family suggested to MGM officials who were looking for a bona fide debutante to appear in a forthcoming picture, that the beautiful Susanne would be ideal for the part.

The studio made an attempt to reach her but Susanne had other plans. Fowler, son of a wealthy Springfield, Mass., family, was divorced from Miss George in 1935.

Sees Son, 2 Pals Killed by Train

THATCHER, Colo., Feb. 15 (AP)—Twelve-year-old Bruce Smoot, out riding in a light coupe with two pals, saw his father waving at them.

He waved back. So did William Talbott, 16, and his brother Bob, 11. They didn't see the fast streamlined train bearing down on them as they approached a crossing. The train struck the car at 45 miles an hour.

Bruce's father, I. C. Smoot, the station agent, had been waving to warn them to stop. They were killed before his eyes.

Move to Shear F. D. Of Budget Power

By CECIL B. DICKSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (INS)—Congress today had moved to take out of President Roosevelt's hands present authority to prepare next year's budget in the event a successor is elected in November.

Apparently in doubt whether Mr. Roosevelt will succeed himself, the Democratic leadership prepared to give legislative right of way to a bill that will give the new president complete control over the budget to be submitted to the next Congress. The measure, sponsored by Rep. Cochran (D.) of Missouri, was reported unanimously by the House committee on expenditures in executive departments. Special procedure to speed action on the measure is to be sought, Cochran said.

Under existing law the President is required to submit a budget to Congress at the opening of each regular session on Jan. 3. Thus, with the next president to be inaugurated on Jan. 20, 1941, President Roosevelt would be required to submit a budget that might be in conflict with the policies of his successor.

"With the transmission of the budget required on the first day of the regular session, Jan. 3, and a new president taking office on Jan. 20," Cochran said, "the situation arises of an outgoing President preparing completely and transmitting to Congress, a budget for the fiscal year which begins July 1 next following the taking of office by a new president."

"This bill will prevent the transmission of an outgoing President's budget to the new Congress and would give the next President 30 days after inauguration to submit his budget. Thus the new President will have an opportunity to reach such conclusions and make such changes in the budget that conform to his policies."

Cochran said a delay in submitting the budget to Feb. 20 would naturally delay the work of Congress.

"Yet," he said, "if the law is not changed and the outgoing President sends in a budget and his successor taking office Jan. 20 differs with that budget in policy or detail and sends a modifying message to Congress remaking the budget, there would be endless confusion and reconsideration."

"The bill would give a new President an opportunity to have something to say about the budget for the first year of his new administration without the embarrassment of having to modify recommendations made previously by his predecessor for a period of government during which the predecessor would not be President."

Should President Roosevelt be re-elected, however, the new bill provides that he may submit his own budget next year.

The elimination of the "jame duck" session of Congress early in the Roosevelt administration, which changed the presidential inauguration from March 4 to Jan. 20, and the meeting of Congress from the first Monday in December to Jan. 3, each year, brought about the budget situation.

Twins Make Alibi For Tipping Dad

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 15 (AP)—William Le Fen had the perfect alibi.

City Judge Allen Ellett fined him $10 for drunkenness but added: "If you can give me one good reason why you should be drunk, I shall suspend the fine."

"Well, your honor," La Fen responded, "I'm the father of 10 children. My wife just got home from the hospital after giving birth to twins. I took a drink or two to celebrate—and recuperate."

Judge Ellett suspended the fine.

Oddities Of the Storm

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Mackay Radio Marine reported today that the Diamond Shoals Lightship, off Cape Hatteras, N.C., which parted her mooring at 8:55 p. m. Wednesday, was fighting its way back to its station.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15 (AP)—Police were pretty busy with the worst blizzard in years. So when a woman telephoned that she couldn't locate a taxicab and "just had" to get to a wedding and wouldn't they loan her a squad car, they refused politely.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Caroline Lamper, 28, died in Syracuse Hospital today after a wild, 25-mile night ride through upstate New York's worst snow storm of the winter.

Critically ill of a respiratory disease, Mrs. Lamper left her home at North Bay, Oneida Lake, last night in an ambulance.

SELINGSGROVE, Pa., Feb. 15 (AP)—The J. Lee Moyers live in a big, rambling farmhouse, but it never was built to accommodate all the guests they found on their hands today.

Thirty-three adults and children struggled through waist-deep snow yesterday from a stalled school bus and automobile to seek shelter.

But there was plenty to eat: Moyer recently did his butchering, and his wife served up a big roast pork dinner for her 33 guests, her husband and her own six children.

All able-bodied Deer Island house of correction inmates were put to work today shoveling a mile-long passage across Shirley Gut to Winthrop in order that supplies for the institution might be brought in by land.

Dies Asks Probe of Hollywood

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (INS).—Chairman Martin Dies of the House un-American activities investigating committee returned to Washington today after four months' absence and immediately proposed early investigation of alleged Communist movements in the Hollywood movie colony.

He disclosed that alleged Communist workings in consumers' organizations throughout the country also will be investigated by the committee.

Dies, who has been ill in Texas, said that he had virtually recovered and that he plans to have his committee redouble its investigative efforts.

The recent episode in Congress, in which it was admitted that forged documents were used in an attack upon Dies, is only part of a well-defined plot to discredit the committee, the chairman charged.

She is Mrs. Bianca Gary, 36, who with her husband, Ernest, came here as a refugee from Austria a year ago.

Although she suffered five broken ribs and possible pelvis injury, surgeons at Bellevue Hospital believe she has an even chance for recovery.

The case was listed as an attempted suicide.

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP).—Minister of Health Walter E. Elliot disclosed today that 1355 persons had died of influenza in England and Wales during the six weeks ending Feb. 3.

Holds Rumania Must Join Allies

BUCHAREST, Feb. 15 (AP)—Former Premier Iuliu Maniu, leader of millions of Rumanian peasants before King Carol abolished all political parties except his own party of National Rebirth, said today Rumania categorically must come out in favor of the British-French Allies if the nation is to find salvation.

In an interview he attacked what he called the King's present policy of attempting strike a balance between economic demands of Germany and the Allies.

Rumania's only salvation, he contended, was for her to be openly in favor of Great Britain and France in the European conflict and to return to democratic parliamentary life.

Maniu declared there were only two alternatives to a return to free institutions:

Bolshevism.
Partition of Rumania by foreign powers.

Cabinet Quits In Bulgaria

SOFIA, Feb. 15 (AP)—The cabinet of Premier George Kiosseivanoff resigned today and King Boris immediately called Professor Bogdan Philoff, minister of education, to form a new Bulgarian government.

Kiosseivanoff, a close friend of the King, had reorganized his cabinet for the eighth time in less than four years, only last Oct. 23 retaining the double role of premier and foreign minister.

Kiosseivanoff's resignation was caused by his bitter fight with Ivan Bogranoff, minister of agriculture, reportedly over relations with Soviet Russia.

Bogranoff, a popular member of the Kiosseivanoff government, was said to favor further tightening of relations with Moscow.

Japs Warns U.S. On China Loan

TOKYO, Feb. 15 (INS)—Japanese Premier Mitsuama, Yonai in effect, warned the United States today against increasing its loan to China.

Addressing the House of Representatives, Yonai replied to questions regarding the United States loan to China by stating that Japan was prepared to meet the situation "should the United States persist in bringing increasing pressure to bear against Japan."

Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita informed the House that Japan has no intention of seceding from or denouncing the anti-Comintern pact in which it is associated with Germany and Italy.

Walk--Only Means Of Travel in R. I.

From all New England cities came graphic stories of the storm's effects. From Providence came the calm announcement of public officials:

"All means of travel in the State, except old-fashioned walking, at a standstill."

State highways were completely blocked by giant drifts. Trolley line officials said they "hoped" they might get something moving late today. Railroad trains were blocked by jammed switches. Rhode Island lay supine beneath a white smother of snow.

From Portland, Me., came reports that the transportation systems throughout the State were running practically at normal but all lines connecting with southern New England were blocked.

A coast guard picket boat rescued two fishermen who tried to save their craft, the Pinta, storm-tossed and ice-bound.

The blizzard left 6 inches of snow in southern and central Maine.

Hip deep drifts, hundreds of stranded automobiles, trolley and bus lines tied up, derailments, all were reported from New Haven, where the inhabitants had been cheering so far this winter because there had been no serious snow. The storm was the worst reported in that state in many ears.

Spring Party As Gale Roars

Oddities relieved the grimmer side of the storm.

In Milton, Miss Betty Inches, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henderson Inches of Brookline, held her springtime coming-out party in spite of the blizzard. Spring blossoms adorned the room, and the orchestra leader was attired in a vatty summer evening jacket.

A testimonial dinner in Abington for Charles Fraher, school principal for 30 years, exceeded expectations at least for duration. Some 300 guests spent the night in the Abington High School building. They included a priest, minister, doctor and the staff of a catering company, whose forethought in bringing extra food was roundly applauded.

Crime took a holiday, but the storm-swept night was one of constant apprehension to such public guardians as police and firemen. Faced with impassable streets, they sat in station houses and held tight.

Train Demolishes Stalled Automobile

NEW BRITAIN, Ct., Feb. 15

(AP)—A New Haven railroad passenger train crashed into an automobile stalled in a snowdrift on a grade crossing at 6:40 a. m. today, demolishing the machine. No one was injured.

James Sullivan, owner of the car, jumped from the machine a few minutes before the crash and vainly attempted to signal the train, coming here from Hartford.

Warn Pedestrians Of Snowslides

A warm sun, rising high in the sky, thawed snow drifts on cornices of buildings this afternoon and pedestrians were warned to beware of sudden avalanches from above.

In congested downtown areas huge mounds of snow, although soft, fell with sufficient force to cause serious injury.

SEE WHAT THE YARDSTICK SAYS ABOUT BIGNESS!

The Ford V-8 has the shortest engine and the longest springbase among all low-priced cars. So, inside the body, where bigness counts, it's not surprising to discover the following facts:

A Inside length, windshield to rear window, is 100 $\frac{1}{4}$  inches... actually greater than some cars substantially higher in price!

B Rear seat knee room exceeds that in either of the other two leading low-priced cars. (Measurements taken in 4-door sedans, with front seat adjusted all the way back!)

C Rear seat passengers in a Ford ride farther ahead of the rear spring center, toward the center of the car where riding quality is best, than passengers in any other car at the price!

ALSO NOTE THESE IMPORTANT FORD ADVANTAGES:

Ford rear door window glass rolls all the way down, flush with bottom of window opening.

Ford front-window ventilation control does not obstruct window opening with metal strip when glass is rolled down... nothing to interfere with driver's arm signals.

All Fords have 28 spoke steering wheels and finger-tip gears shift on steering post at no extra cost.

POLICE SAVE BUS DRIVER

Four Chelsea police officers fought their way through blinding snow and drifts today and saved the life of Arthur Churchill, 46, an Elevated bus driver, who was overcome by monoxide gas.

Churchill's bus became stalled at Park and Washington sts., Chelsea, so he decided to make the best of it and wait until he could be dug out in the morning. He turned the heat on. Some time later an unidentified pedestrian fought his way to the bus seeking shelter. He found Churchill unconscious.

Bucking the storm again he went to a nearby home and telephoned to Police Sargent Peter McAuley, and three patrolmen dug their way to the bus after arranging for the hire of a horse and wagon. Then for two miles they fought their way to the Chelsea Memorial Hospital. Churchill's condition is fair.

"Ill Wind" Aid To Prisoners

The old saying about the "ill wind" was apt at State Prison in Charlestown today when the 360 inmates got a day off from work.

The storm made it impossible for so many of the guards and instructors to report for duty that there was no work. The shops were closed and the inmates rested in their cells.

Boston Stops Auto Traffic Into City

and other institutions, he said, have plenty of fuel and have enough food for that time.

Boston's fire department was driven back to the day of the horse, when it borrowed 20 horses from the Whiting Milk Co., and cast around for more.

Some of the fire houses still have the old-fashioned sleighs and puns, which carried hose and chemicals through winter drifts in the past decades.

The horses secured were distributed among 14 fire stations, mainly in the outlying stands, under orders of Chief Samuel J. Pope, who made the arrangements.

THOUSANDS GET JOBS
Meanwhile City Hall, because of the storm and transportation difficulties, was staffed with little more than 30 per cent of its personnel, and the short-handed switchboard staff encountered more difficulties when mechanical trouble developed on the board.

With city officials attempting to secure every snow shoveler possible, 50 young men crowded around the mayor's office seeking work, but refusing shoveler's jobs.

They wanted, they said, the easier posts as checkers, and if they could not be checkers they would take nothing. With not much ceremony they were hustled into the street.

During most of the day there were 7500 men on Boston snow removal, and 2000 more were hired in mid-afternoon.

At 6 p. m. it was planned to send home those men who had been working from the early hours, and hire an additional 5000 men to work tonight.

STOP ALL AUTOS

Shortly before noon, Capt. James T. Sheehan, in charge of traffic, ordered all automobiles into Boston stopped. He told his traffic officers to turn back all automobiles coming in from surrounding communities.

His orders followed a request from Public Works Commissioner Ijzland, who said the only way he could get Boston's streets cleared of snow was to have the automobile traffic held up.

At the same time Supt. of Police Edward W. Fallon announced that all cases scheduled in superior court for today had been put over to 2 p. m. tomorrow, because it had been impossible for witnesses and officers to get to court.

One of the worst traffic jams was in Hyde Park ave., Roslindale, near Southbourne st.

William Fowler, 49, a fisherman, of Bremen st., East Boston, collapsed near his home and was dead before medical assistance could be obtained. Police tried to take the victim to East Boston Relief Station, but could not get an ambulance through.

Sixteen storm-defeated trolley cars of the Elevated and seven L buses blocked the street at this point, making it impossible for snowplows to go through.

TAXI REAP HARVEST

At Cleary sq., Hyde Park, there were three trolley cars and about 50 automobiles stranded, including a police cruiser car.

Taxi drivers here were reaping a harvest, crowding nine persons into a cab and charging $1 a head for the trip to Forest Hills terminal. The usual rate is $1 for the cab, regardless of the number of passengers.

Over-excitation of motorists who tried to push their cars or who were forced to walk long distances when their cars were stalled was a direct cause of several deaths, according to doctors.

Starting in the early twilight of St. Valentine's day, the blizzard not only crippled Massachusetts cities but threatened the lives of scores of seamen. A dozen vessels were disabled and sent distress calls for aid.

Huge waves battered coastal towns and flooded hundreds of homes in Winthrop and Beachmont.

Although state highways were generally clear, stranded autos cluttered many main routes. No where, however, was the situation as bad as in Boston, which bore the brunt of the storm.

In the most important downtown streets there was not a sign of a plow. Drifts blocked entrances of hospitals and fire stations.

ACTING MAYOR OUT

Acting Mayor Galvin, pinch-hitting for Mayor Tobin who is resting in Florida, personally supervised efforts to get the snow-removal task started.

Earliest arrivals at Boston stores and offices today were the thousands marooned over night in the city.

They jammed every hotel lobby, slept on emergency cots in crowded hotel rooms, taxed the capacity of North and South Stations. Scores "stuck" in the Harvard Sq. tunnel terminal built fires to keep warm.

A crowd of 10,000, including hundreds of persons who attended the Sonja Henie ice show at Boston Garden, milled around North Station all night. Boston & Maine trains ran at irregular intervals, but thousands of autoists made the terminal their refuge.

Police said more than 1200 automobiles were left in streets around North Station.

Because of the drifts and abandoned autos, all street car service was disrupted. Several derailments and street car collisions were reported. Subway trains operated throughout the night, although schedules could not be followed.

Bus, Train Crash, Leaps for Life

WATERBURY, Ct., Feb. 13 (INS)

—Driver Nathan Rosenberg had to jump for his life from a bus today when it was struck by a north-bound New York, New Haven & Hartford train after the vehicle stalled in a snow drift at a grade crossing. Rosenberg was not injured but the bus was demolished.

The bus had unloaded approximately 40 workers at a Waterbury factory a few minutes earlier.

GIRLS WAIT PATIENTLY FOR TRAINS AT NORTH STATION
Terminal Crowded As Storm Upsets Railroad Schedules

Highlights, Freak Storm Incidents

Railroad depots in the outlying sections presented today a winter sports atmosphere, with not a few commuters arriving on snowshoes and skis—which they parked with the station agents. Girls, too, in ski-suits and every kind of clinging sweaters—costumes they would not think of wearing to Boston offices except for the storm conditions.

It's been many a long day since horses and puns and rigs were seen in downtown Boston, but today every nag that could kick his or her way through the clogged streets and every pung and sleigh that would hold together was at a premium.

Breakfasts of cookies and tonic—a fine thing to start the day—were served stranded passengers on a Harvard Square-Arlington bus that had stalled during the night.

It was a tough morning for the hanger boys. Even tavern owners and bartenders found it difficult to reach their oases in time, and many of the elbow spots had several desperate lads waiting hopefully in the doorways for the openers-up.

You can't explain to a six-month-old infant that a blizzard is raging outside. When the feeding time passed for the infant of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Cullen of Natick, stranded at the home of a neighbor, came and went, police were appealed to. Patrolman Joseph Shea bucked the drifts to obtain the special food and hurry it to the hungry tot.

Antiquated gas fixtures were brought into action at the East Cambridge police station when the electricity failed leaving the station in darkness.

Despite the fact that prowlers were laid up and the city was virtually left without police patrols, not a single crime was reported in Cambridge. Only a handful of officers reported at morning rollcall.

The trackless trolley buses went out of action early on the Huron and Concord ave. lines from Harvard sq. The trolleys would not stick to the ice-coated wires.

The Old Colony railroad, center of so much recent controversy, came through in the pinch today by running a commuters' train from Braintree to the South Boston yards in spite of almost insuperable difficulties.

Made up at Braintree, the train consisted of three passenger coaches, with a locomotive pulling at its head and another pushing from behind.

Making all stops and picking up a capacity load, the train finally stalled helplessly on a frozen switch in South Boston. Most of the passengers walked through drifts to the Broadway station of the Boston Elevated, where they created a temporary jam, but were finally all brought into downtown Boston.

An El bus running from Park sq. to North Station made the trip triumphantly today—in 80 minutes! Normal walking time would be 10 minutes.

A peculiarity of American men and women is that under extraordinary handicaps they become jolly. It was proved again today when crowds laughed and joked as they rode, jammed, in the interrupt and late trains. Everybody was late for work, most had been compelled to walk to the stations—and then they were forced to leave trains long before reaching the depots, because the trains could not get in.

Probably in no other New England town have so many automobiles been stalled because of engine trouble. Tech engineers explained that this was caused by the combination of gale winds and unusually small and fine snow particles, which were driven through hood louvers and through the radiators, to melt on the engine heads and short-circuit the motors.

Concord police assigned to day traffic duty had no traffic to direct—so the chief gave them snow shovels and sent them out to help clear downtown intersections!

Veteran state troopers of the Topshill barracks said the Newburyport turnpike was completely blocked today for the first time in their memory. At least a dozen big trailer trucks were hopelessly stalled on the highway between Danvers and Ipswich.

Acting Mayor William J. Galvin, who took over his "merely-honorary" job with joking ceremony a few short days ago, was mopping his brow wearily today after a worried night spent in coping with Boston's worst snow removal problem in a decade. Every time he thought of Mayor Tobin, acquiring sun tan at Miami, Galvin grunted aloud and reached for another mug of black coffee.

At Falmouth, a short-circuited high tension wire cut off electrical power at the Barnstable County Sanitarium at Pocasset, putting the oil heating apparatus out of commission.

The recent feminine craze for ski costumes stood many fair faddists in good stead today. They came to their downtown Boston jobs neatly and practically attired for the weather in boots, woolen stockings and ski trousers.

Suffering from a fractured leg, sustained in a fall near his home, Joseph S. Guthrie, 46, 438 Cambridge st., Brighton, waited an hour before a police ambulance could reach him through snow-blocked streets. Brighton police, closely following a snowplow, went and removed Guthrie to St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

TWO SLEEPY PEOPLE—Finding refuge in Hotel Essex lobby. Mr. and Mrs. Justin McCarthy of Medford slip in a nap, sharing shoulders. They were two of hundreds stranded in Boston by storm. Hotels throughout the city were crowded to capacity.

CHURCHILL LAUDS CREW OF EXETER

PLYMOUTH, England, Feb. 15 (AP)—The cruiser Exeter, one of three which defeated the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee in the Battle of Montevideo, came home to this historic port today to be greeted by a cheering crowd headed by Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty.

The battle-scarred Exeter, which had been repaired at Port Stanley, Falkland Islands, for the long voyage home, saluted Churchill as a tug led the way to port shortly after 10 a. m.

Also on hand to pay tribute to the crew of the 5390-ton warship were Sir Dudley Pound, First Sea Lord, and Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The Exeter had dropped anchor in the sound early in the morning, and the people of Plymouth and Devonport were advised of her arrival time by local broadcasts.

Churchill, wearing a peaked yachting cap and a double-breasted blue jacket of naval cut, waited two hours for the Exeter's arrival.

Smoking his ever-present cigar, he doffed his cap at the roar of the ship's salute, and then went aboard to congratulate the officers and men while the band played Rule Britannia.

Under the Exeter's new coat of paint, scars from the German raider's shell still were visible.

The Germans reported last October that the Repulse had been damaged by a torpedo from the same submarine which sank the British battleship Royal Oak at Scapa Flow, but Prime Minister Chamberlain said the big cruiser was not harmed.

There was no explanation of the Repulse's return to Plymouth for refitting, however.

east of Lake Ladoga, the communistic said.

crete fortifications during the past four days, the London News Chronicle reported from Moscow today.

About half of these fortifications were armed with artillery batteries and the remainder with machine guns, the dispatch said.

The Finnish positions were captured by well-equipped Russian troops from Siberia who already have seriously denied the Mannerheim line at several places the report added, particularly before Viipuri.

Reds to Celebrate Finns' "Fall" Feb. 23

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (INS)—A determined effort by Russia to smash the Mannerheim Line Feb. 23, the 22nd anniversary of the founding of the Red army, has been ordered by Moscow, diplomatic quarters understood today.

This attempt to dramatize victory and erase the blot on the Soviet Union's military banner caused by early Red Army failures is responsible for the present cloudburst of shot and shell now being rained upon the defending Finns.

Military experts here have reluctantly concluded that barring a miracle, the hard-pressed Finns must soon yield to superior force. Human bravery, they pointed out, can not forever make up for numerical weakness, and the Russians outnumber the Finns by more than 50 to one.

According to the best information available, Finland has received more than 100 war planes and a considerable quantity of guns and material from Norway, Sweden, Great Britain and France, but less than 20,000 men, or only a few more than one Russian division.

The Soviets, according to reliable figures, have thrown about 40 divisions against Finland, most of them along the Mannerheim Line.

Offers Neutrals Convoy

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Britain was said authoritatively today to be prepared to offer convoy protection to all neutral shipping passing through her contraband controls whether bound for a British port or elsewhere in view of Germany's latest pronouncements on sea warfare.

Authorized spokesmen in Berlin yesterday and the day before insisted that German submarines had the legal right to sink any neutral ship bound for a British contraband control port, whether voluntarily or under British compulsion.

This was said to apply to any American ship touching a British port such as Gibraltar, where United States liners have been detained for examination recently while en route to Italian ports.

A British spokesman asserted that Britain views the German claim of the right to sink any neutral ship even though proceeding between neutral ports as it goes through the Allied contraband control as "a boast of the illegal policy of sea warfare which Germany already is pursuing."

This spokesman said the British view is that it is unlawful to sink such a merchant vessel at any time. Britain is not surprised by the Berlin announcements, he said, since "we have known that the Germans have been sinking the merchant ships of neutrals indiscriminately without either regard for the lives of the men aboard or destination."

"The only new angle," the British spokesman asserted, "is that they now are boasting of doing so."

"The moral to this is the safety of neutral ships in convoy. In view of shipping following more or less fixed routes there should be no difficulty in any neutral shipping joining a convoy, although not actually bound for a British port."

BERLIN, Feb. 15 (AP)—The German high command communique today reported a total of 53,000 tons of shipping sunk yesterday.

"Feb. 14 was a particularly successful day for German sea war, especially submarines. On this day alone, ships of a gross tonnage of 53,000 were sunk," the German communique said.

(Against this claim a British admiralty announcement said that two German submarines had been sunk and a French communique reported capture of an unidentified German freighter.)

Berlin Gratified At U. S. 'Concession'

BERLIN, Feb. 15 (INS)—German quarters expressed gratification today at what was interpreted in Berlin as a disposition in the United States to concede the Reich's attitude toward neutral ships in danger zones.

This expression was voiced by authentic quarters following yesterday's warning that Germany would be legally justified in sinking an American vessel which touched at the British Gibraltar contraband control port and submitted to search there while en route to the Mediterranean.

TWO MORE SUBS SUNK BY BRITISH

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP) — The Admiralty's scoreboard today showed four German submarines sent to the bottom in the past six days, raising the unofficial total close to 50 since the start of the war.

An Admiralty statement last night announced another pair lost Friday.

Of the new ones, the British claimed vengeance within a half hour against an undersea raider which torpedoed the 12,306-ton freighter Sultan Star, bound for England with 6000 tons of frozen Argentine beef.

The other was sent down in the North Sea where two other large British merchant ships, the 10,191-ton Gretefield and the 8501-ton British Triumph, both tankers, were sunk most recently.

Five of the British Triumph's crew of 47 and 13 of the Gretefield's crew were missing. The first capsized and sank after an explosion in the North Sea and the other went down in flames off the northern coast of Scotland.

Seventy-two survivors of the Sultan Star landed today at a West Coast port. Capt. W. H. Bevan said only one man was lost and two injured.

The success of Britain's convoy system against submarine attack is credited largely to the navy's secret "Asdic" device which enables warships to stalk undersea raiders with depth bombs even after they dive—once they have been spotted.

$5000 More Needed For Xmas Seal Fund

Henry C. McKenna, chairman of the Christmas Seal sale committee of the Boston Tuberculosis Ass'n, announced today that $38,000 was realized from the sale of Christmas seals.

He pointed out, however, that there are still 40,000 residents of Boston who received the seals but have not made returns and $5000 more is needed to carry on the work of the association.

Fat Girls — Here's A Tip!
NEW YORK Special

In 40 days Mrs. Helga Blaugh reduced 26 lbs., took 4 inches off hips, 3 inches off bust and 7½ inches off waist. She writes: "I feel fine and look 40 yrs. younger."

How would you like to safely and harmlessly lose 25 pounds of fat in a few weeks? How would you like to lose your double chin and your bulging hips and stomach and along with it get the increase in energy and improvement in health which so often accompanies excess fat reduction?

Get on the scales today and see how much you weigh. Take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water first thing every morning to gently activate liver, bowels and kidneys. Cut down your caloric intake. Eat wisely and satisfactorily. Then after 30 days weigh yourself again and just see if you haven't lost pounds of fat. If not, Kruschen is not joyfully satisfied.

Refuse imitations! Demand and get the genuine Kruschen made right here in the U. S. A. A jar lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle.

Ship Sunk, 2 Ashore, Disabled by Storm

One ship was sunk today, two were blown ashore and at least four other vessels were disabled as the snow-loaded northeaster ripped the sea off New England.

Huge waves engulfed the oiler freighter Sunflower at Jamestown, R. I., and the ship sank at its moorings. Her crew of four struggled through battering combs to safety. The 42-foot fishing boat Alice was swept ashore at Newport, R. I., in crew of two rescued by Coast Guards, and an unidentified fishing boat was blown ashore at Gay Head, Martha's Vineyard. Coast Guards searched for at least five small lobster boats, feared in danger of being crushed by the ice of Vineyard Sound. Fighting heavy seas, Coast Guard cutters tried to reach the New Bedford flounder dragger Palmer's Island, helpless in raging seas with her propeller fouled by a net.

Nearly 200 executives and guests of the Bethlehem Steel Co. were stranded aboard the American Export Line's new 6737-ton freighter Exchange in Provincetown harbor, where the vessel found shelter during a trial run.

For the first time since the 1938 hurricane, all scheduled sailings from Boston Harbor were cancelled. No trips were made to or from New York.

In Boston Harbor, the British freighter Germanic broke loose and narrowly escaped running aground on Spectacle Island before two boats reached her.

The City of Boston steamer Michael Perkins, carrying 200 visitors to Long Island Hospital and Deer Island, was at the mercy of wind and waves more than an hour before the tug Luna took her in tow.

Cutter Stands By Crippled Tanker

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (INS)—The cutter Ponchartrain has reached the disabled 3262-ton oil tanker Aztec, 50 miles southeast of Sandy Hook, N. J., and is standing by. The Aztec will be towed to the nearest port, Coast Guard headquarters announced today.

The captain of the Aztec reported earlier his rudder was loose and said if the rudder post tore loose the sea would flood into the engine room.

their car was stalled in drifts.

In Melrose, when a call came to the New England Sanitarium and Hospital for an ambulance to go to Winter st., the hospital attaches were balked by eight-foot drifts in front of their garage.

Melrose police were called, as well as the fire department, and an emergency ambulance was run out and picked up Mr. and Mrs. William J. Forrest at the Winter st. home.

AMBULANCE STALLS
On the way to the hospital the ambulance became stalled in the Fellows near the institution, but hospital orderlies met the vehicle with blankets and a stretcher and Mrs. Forrest was carried the rest of the way. Several hours later she was awaiting her child.

Another who finished her trip to the hospital on a stretcher carried through the drifts was Mrs. Dorothy Hurdie, 28, of Napier park, Dorchester.

Five officers of Fields Corner station battled for more than an hour to take her to City Hospital, but their car finally gave up the ghost 500 yards away from the entrance.

A little girl was born to Mrs. Hurdie and both are in excellent condition, despite the mother's ordeal.

In Concord, a baby was nearly born in a police cruiser car taking Mrs. Ruth Tompkins Ellis of Carlisle st. to Emerson Hospital, from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tompkins of Lowell rd.

BLAST SUB ABOUT TO FIRE

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP)—A Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from Oslo reported today that an explosion occurred in a German submarine about to fire a torpedo at a Norwegian vessel bound from America to Norway.

The dispatch said it was believed the submarine was sunk by a British destroyer, but details were not known.

The crew of the ship which the submarine was about to attack took to their boats after the submarine sank, said Reuters, which added that the ship had aboard survivors of the Norwegian ship Sæstad, sunk by mine or torpedo Sunday while en route from Norway to Philadelphia.

Charge Britain Spreads War

BERLIN, Feb. 15 (AP)—The German press and sources authorized to comment joined today in charging that Great Britain is striving to involve in the war neutrals and regions now at peace.

The accusation uttered on all sides was that Britain "as usual is trying to line up others to fight her battles."

Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz, a semi-official commentary usually reflecting the foreign office attitude, took a particularly dark view of the arrival Monday of Australian and New Zealand troops in Egypt and the welcome extended them there by British Dominions Secretary Anthony Eden.

Warns Near East Of War Spread

ISTANBUL, Feb. 15 (AP)—The French-language newspaper La Republique, which often reflects official opinion, stated today that the peoples of the Near East must prepare for a possible spread of war through this region.

Although it said war seemed unlikely here for the moment, it added that "it is only natural that people who value their health pay attention to the probability of its eventual coming."

Although the war's present center is the western front, it said, "The real object of the war being constituted by countries and nations which Germany considers part of her 'Lebensraum' (living space), these countries and nations virtually are in the orbit of the war even though it is not yet their turn."

PUT ON PROBATION

PLYMOUTH, Feb. 15—Pleading guilty to charges of forgery and larceny of checks totalling $3000, Beattie T. Cobb of Abington today began a court-imposed probationary period of two years meted out with a suspended sentence to the Women's Reformatory in Sherborn.

See Virgin Mary Over British Front

PARIS, Feb. 15 (AP)—Press accounts from the front sector occupied by the British today reported that Tommies manning an outpost during the night suddenly saw an image of the Virgin Mary appear in the clouds with her arms outstretched in entreaty.

The commander sent out a patrol which returned with the information that the Germans were projecting the image from a machine on the ground.

Hub Scouting Key For 'Americanism'

As part of Americanism Week, now being observed nationally until Feb. 22, the Boston Junior Association of Commerce today announced a plan of closer co-operation with the Boy Scout organization in this area.

The announcement, by Robert Spooner, the Boston Junior Association of Commerce chairman on Boy Scout activities, stated that 26 members of his association have pledged themselves to assist what he believes is "probably one of the greatest youth training mediums in the United States."

"Believing," said Chairman Spooner, "that the foundation of a real American must be established when the boy or girl is very young, and at a time when they are placed in a position where our Americanisms are brought to their attention, our committee will work in close co-operation with Boy Scout officials."

This is to provide man-power in the person of troop leaders, advisers and the like, in order that new troops might be established in sections of the city where we and Boy Scout officials feel a real job may be done in building good citizens.

Meanwhile, boys and girls were urged again today to enter the poster contest, with its $25 first prize, a feature of the local celebration of Americanism Week.

The rules are simple, requiring only that a poster be submitted, illustrating the title: "Just It Great To Be An American."

All entries should be mailed to the Boston Junior Association of Commerce, Hotel Statler, Boston Mass., before midnight, Feb. 24.

F. R. to Board Cruiser Today

ABOARD PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL EN ROUTE TO PENSACOLA, Fla., Feb. 15 (INS)—President Roosevelt headed for a "fishing cruise" in southern waters today that had political leaders guessing, both in the United States and Europe.

Last-minute secrecy concerning the port of embarkation was lifted when White House aides aboard the special train conceded that Mr. Roosevelt would board the 10,000-ton navy cruiser Tuscaloosa at Pensacola, Fla., sometime today. What course will be charted into, or through, the Gulf of Mexico remained a mystery that may well hold until the cruise is completed.

Domestically, politicians of both major political parties pondered full import of Mr. Roosevelt's swing out to sea at a time his name was being pushed in Illinois, Wisconsin, Nebraska and New Hampshire for a third term.

First Lady Battles Storm at Syracuse

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt remained here today after a trying trip by automobile through a snowstorm from Syracuse. ## More Mothers Join Anti-War Crusade

Fresh support for the National Legion of Mothers of America came today from a Connecticut woman, mother of two sons and wife of a World War veteran, who pledged herself to keep American youth from warring on foreign soil.

Fresh support for the National Legion of Mothers of America came today from a Connecticut woman, mother of two sons and wife of a World War veteran, who pledged herself to keep American youth from warring on foreign soil.

The mother is Mrs. Kathleen A. Miller, 23 Edmond st., Newington and she writes:
 "I would like to join the Legion of Mothers. I have two sons of military age and of late most of my time is spent listening to the radio and reading about war abroad. As my husband fought for England in the last war you may be sure that I do not want my sons to go through the same thing."
 Letters from mothers in cities and towns scattered throughout New England, applying for membership in the Legion, continue to flow in to Legion headquarters. They reflect the deep concern of mothers with sons of military age, who are opposed to any attempt to send their sons to fight on a foreign battlefield. The plea of all was for strict neutrality and peace for America.
 From Manchester, N. H., Mrs. Robert Patzke, 21 Dubuque st., sends along her pledge and writes: "Enclosed please find my pledge card. I have a son 21 years old and a son-in-law 25 years old. I do not want them to fight on foreign soil."
 Edith Bujnicki, 43 Art st., Gardiner, writes: "Please add my name to the Legion. I am proud to join you in such a patriotic movement."

Applaud Zeal Of Audience

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15 (AP)—For their fortitude in braving one of the century's worst blizzards actors applauded a small but determined audience last night. To the 100 men and women who had bucked snowdrifts and lashing winds to attend the performance Ted Shawn, dancer, said in a curtain speech: "Audiences like you are courageous and receptive." Then he and the entire cast applauded.

2 NEGRO WOMEN HELD FROM MOB

SNOW HILL, Md., Feb. 15 (AP)—State troopers searched in a cold, blizzard-swept swamp today for another suspect wanted in a farmer's slaying after two Negro women, rescued from an angry mob last night, had been placed in the safety of a jail at Bel Air, Md.

A posse of about 75 officers and civilians reported the swamp surrounded, and predicted the storm and fast-dropping temperature would drive the suspect from hiding. Visibility at times was reduced to 25 yards by the heavy snowfall, intermittently swirling and driving.

1000 IN MOB
Under the alert watch of state police, this eastern shore area showed no signs of last night's disorder, in which a mob, estimated officially at 1000 men, smashed in the Worcester county jail. They took the women in a threatened avenging of the death Sunday of Harvey W. Pichard, 61, and the wounding of his wife, Annie, at their home in nearby Stockton.

The women, from whom the mob sought to learn the identity and whereabouts of the slayers, were taken to the Harford County Jail in Bel Air on orders of Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor, who announced he was assuming "full responsibility" for their safekeeping.

Also in jail at Bel Air were two Negro men, one of whom was removed from the Worcester jail just before the mob stormed it. The other had been held at Salisbury, Md.

WOMEN SURRENDERED

The women—Martha Blake, 31, and her daughter, Lillian Virginia, 14—walked out of the swamp and surrendered yesterday to men on guard. Police said they were companions of the suspect still being sought.

Funeral services for Pichard were held yesterday noon at the Girde Tree Baptist Church. More than 100 mourners stood through the snow storm in the church yard for his interment.

Widow Gets $100,000 In Cavalier Death

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Donald W. Miller of Lincoln, Neb., a survivor of the sinking of the Imperial Airways flying boat Cavalier, is the recipient of a $100,000 out-of-court settlement for the death of her husband, her attorney announced. Miller and two others lost their lives when the ship sank at sea after making a forced landing en route to Bermuda in January, 1939. Through her attorney, T. R. Isenma, Mrs. Miller filed a damage suit in federal court for $201,109, charging that her husband's death was caused by "willful negligence" of the ship's crew.

Big News needs instant telling by Telephone

A SMALL CRY, but it's BIG NEWS—bigger than all the headlines, the biggest of all world affairs. It's a new baby. Only the telephone can fully enough, quickly enough report so momentous a news event—the first incoherent ecstasies of the brand new father—later the proud mother's tooth-by-tooth account of progress. In this exciting period of baffling new problems what generous help the telephone brings so quickly, easily. What comfort, the instant response of telephone service. Friends and relatives, however far away, are near—to admire—to help—by telephone. The greatest distance is no more than chair-to-chair by telephone—time, no more than seconds. The cost—lower than you think.... Calling out of town costs least of all evenings after 7 and on Sundays.

NEARLY 1000 DAILY TRANSCONTINENTAL VOICE TRIPS
Today, 800 to 1000 people will telephone across the continent. They'll talk as easily across 3000 miles as across the street to a neighbor. Such service requires the centralized research of Bell Telephone Laboratories and the centralized manufacturing of the Western Electric Company, serving the Bell System with which your New England Company is associated.

MOTHERS-TO-BE ANXIOUS TO FLY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—A petition to let expectant mothers fly airplanes has been presented to the Civil Aeronautics Authority by a woman who has had three children and has flown 1000 hours since 1928.

In letters from her attorney to the CAA made public today, Mrs. Betty H. Gillies of Syoset, N. Y., president of the Ninety-Nines, an organization of women fliers, contended that pregnancy is not a "physical deficiency" or "abnormality," as held by the CAA.

Opinions of five doctors accompanying the petition. On the other side, the CAA arrayed contrary medical opinions holding that flying during pregnancy might be unwise.

The Ninety-Nines' doctors said, in part:

"This, emaciated . . . women would be much better pilots if they were four months pregnant!"

"Pregnancy is not an indication of physical deficiency but on the other hand an indication of a rather high grade of physical condition."

In reply, the CAA said it had medical opinion that expectant mothers are subject to fainting and nausea and to emotional distresses, not conducive to safe flying.

FOUR DIE IN AUTO LAKE DIVE

SANDUSKY, O., Feb. 15 (AP)—An automobile plunged through thin Lake Erie ice carrying Dr. George J. Edam, 33, his wife and two small children to death in 30 feet of water off Middle Bass Island, five miles north of the Ohio mainland.

The bodies of Dr. Edam and his wife, Noretta, 32, were recovered by Capt. Lee Miller, harbor master at Put-In-Bay, as they floated to the surface of the lake. Those of the children, Barbara, 2, and George, Jr., 3, were not recovered immediately.

Postmistress Mildred McCann of Middle Bass Island saw the car plunge into the lake and summoned old Dr. Edam, Put-In-Bay physician, was answering a call on Middle Bass Island, and was driving off the usual over-the-ice path between the two islands.

THE HARVARD CRIMSON'S complaint that the University's famous Phillips Brooks House has been used as a meeting place by a so-called Red Shirt group causes widespread regret.

Bigotry and intolerance were far removed from the liberal mind of Phillips Brooks, profound believer in American freedom, lifelong foe of narrow sectarianism.

Were it possible for this distinguished Harvard son to come back from the grave, he would be the first to cry out against racial and religious hatreds.

One needs little imagination to guess how vigorously he would denounce the mere mention of his name in the same breath with that of an individual or organization suspected of entertaining fanatical prejudices.

It is as a follower and worthy disciple of Phillips Brooks that Dean Willard L. Sperry, of the Harvard Divinity School, speaks when he says:

"Phillips Brooks House was for many years the home and center of the Saint Paul's (Roman Catholic) Society, and its doors have always been open to Catholic groups.

"Not more than three months ago it was the meeting place for a group of Catholics, Protestants and Jews gathered to discuss the common concerns of all three faiths.

"Nothing is farther from the intention of the University authorities or the present undergraduate officers of the Association than to lend sanction in any way to racial and religious bigotries, no matter how they may attempt to sanctify themselves in the name of patriotism."

Unfortunately, however, rumors concerning the reputed presence of intolerance within the confines of Harvard have received national and international attention—more attention, probably, than Dean Sperry's statement will receive.

Because of that unhappy circumstance, there is a pressing need for ACTION—forthright, remedial action of the kind that ennobled the earthly ministry of Phillips Brooks.

Let the WHOLE, COMPLETE STORY be told.

If a shrine perpetuating the memory of Phillips Brooks has been desecrated, let the country and world know ALL THE NAMES of the culpable parties.

If a group has abused the hospitality of Harvard, let the mighty power of outraged public opinion make it impossible for its members to go elsewhere and continue activities which Dean Sperry brands as "singularly wanting in Christian charity."

"LEAP YEAR WEEK" is a novel and popular institution at numerous co-educational colleges, distinctly at Indiana Central.

Young women invite men to parties, dances and theaters, the hostesses making all the arrangements and paying the bills.

"We girls like it," one Indiana young woman informs the Associated Press, "because it gives us a chance to show the men what a real gentleman is supposed to act like."

Grandma would be shocked by such goings-on. She'd likely say: "Girls knew their place in my day.

Today, there are 913,976 women gainfully employed in agriculture, 3249 in forestry and fishing activities, 10,294 in mining, 2,416, 238 in manufacturing and mechanical industries, 447,730 in transportation, 1,716,384 in the various trades, 500,000 in public service, and 1,762,795 in the medical, legal and teaching professions.

Earning their own living, these women can afford to be independent. They do not have to rely on men.

THE INTERESTING PICTURE of an interesting baby shows nine-months-old Cecily Williams in London, following a flight across the Atlantic with her soldier father who is rejoining the British Army.

SHE MUST SHARE
War's Dreadful Price

One cannot fail to be apprehensive for the safety of Baby Williams and the millions like her "Over There."

They did not start the current war. They have nothing to do with its conduct.

But these children are compelled to share the fearful cost of the conflict, either immediately through the loss of their lives in aerial bombardments or later in the form of blighted careers in a world divested of opportunity.

It is too bad all wars could not be fought by those who MAKE them—the diplomats and statesmen and politicians, and warlike citizens safely above the draft age.

Human Side of News

By EDWIN C. HILL

IN THE LI FAN-YUAN, or Colonial Office, at Peking, there is a register of 160 gods incarnate in the persons of human beings, with their divinity attested by seals and licenses, giving them a cachet of authority as valid as that of any temporal official. Thirty of them are in Tibet; 19 in northern Mongolia and 57 in Southern Mongolia.

Their subjects number hundreds of millions of Buddhists. Their power is temporal as well as spiritual, for, East and West, religion and politics do not necessarily go their separate ways.

On February 21st, at the ancient monastery at Lhasa, in Tibet, there will be enthroned, with a gorgeous ritual, a new Dalai Lama, supreme ruler of this oriental pantheon of godhood.

He is Lingerh Ma Mu Teng Chu, four years and eight months old, a round-faced, bright-eyed peasant boy, over whose house stood a rainbow, at his birth, to mark the coming of a successor to the old Dalai Lama, who died in December, 1933.

ENGLAND, France, Russia and Japan all were intensely interested in the interval between that day in 1933 when the withered old Dalai Lama passed over some "lost horizon," and when his breath stirred again in the person of a child in a peasant's hut in a remote Chinese province.

Traditionally, China has forbidden the reincarnated Dalai

THE GOLDEN CAR OF THE LIVING BUDDHA
Peasant's Boy Will Ride in State as New Dalai Lama

Lama to be born anywhere but in Tibet. There have been stories that pressure was brought on the Grand Lamas to have this reincarnation come off in China.

At any rate, the tradition was broken, and the regency, which will tutor the Little Dalai Lama until he is 18, is said to be highly satisfactory to England, and not so acceptable to Russia and Japan.

Little Lingerh, who was Tachu, the peasant's boy, will be the pawn of destiny, or of divinity, as his subjects would have it, exalted in golden panoply to the drum-beat of passing centuries.

The priests who sought the reincarnated Dalai Lama were disguised as peddlers. But concealed among their wares were the drum, the walking stick, beads and other articles which had belonged to the previous Dalai Lama.

Instantly, they said, Little Tachu selected the articles which he had used in a previous incarnation. Then he tolled the beads of the rosary and chanted "Om Mani Padme Hum."

His father told them that when the child was born a beautiful rainbow had arched their hut.

So, last summer, a great chanting procession carried the lad in a golden sedan through the desolate wilderness, two months over the roof of the world to the great yellow peacock tent of Lhasa, to prepare him to become the sovereign of countless millions.

MY DAY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—Monday afternoon was a fairly busy one. First of all, the Society of Sponsors, who are holding their annual meeting here, came to tea. Then, at about 5:30, members of the American Youth Congress Assembly, who had been holding their final meetings all day, came to tea. I have never seen a more appreciative group and was impressed by their interest in the White House and their admiration of the new Lincoln portrait hanging in the State Dining Room.

So many people pay no attention to their surroundings, and it was interesting to note how wide awake and appreciative these youngsters were.

I FEEL that their program for work is good. It calls for councils to survey for jobs in different localities and to open up as many new opportunities as possible, as well as for a method of keeping before communities the situation in which great numbers of young people find themselves. This is a constructive program.

Of course, this method is the way by which they hope to show people that, until jobs are available to young people who are ready and willing to work, the

MRS. ROOSEVELT
Finds Youth Appreciative
American Youth Act must fill the gap.

The act provides, among other things, for a permanent National Youth Administration with a much larger grant of money, $500,000,000 in fact, to give both vocational guidance and training and work at prevailing wages on public projects to all unemployed young people.

In the evening I went to speak at the Monday Evening Club, a group of people in Washington who are concerned with civic betterment, and who have worked a long time on improving conditions from various angles.

Tuesday morning, I had a swim before a rather late breakfast. I feel, because I have no more official engagements in Washington until March, that I have already begun a holiday, even though there will be two days at the end of this week when I shall be working very hard—one in Tallahassee and one in Daytona Beach, Florida.

I WANT to remind people who are interested in the progress that women have made, that today, February 15, is Susan B. Anthony's birthday.

It seems to me that, in the words of Rheta Childe Dorr: ". . . every woman who holds a job, who goes to college, who is a lawyer, doctor, scientist, teacher, as well as every mother who has the power to protect her children, and, above all, every woman who votes or holds office owes to Susan B. Anthony a debt of gratitude that can never be paid."

Sometimes we forget how rapidly changes have come about for women and how much progress has been made toward their participation as persons in the life of our nation.

Broadway Medley GARBO BETRAYS OWN PRESENCE By Leonard Lyons

Greta Garbo, who left Palm Beach because she was annoyed at the curiosity of the winter residents, might have been able to remain there, undisturbed, if she hadn't been too wary of a camera . . . Jerome Zerbe, the photographer, had stopped at the Alibi Bar, and placed his camera on the seat next to him, while he tipped his drink. A waiter brought him a message: "The young lady asks would you please be a gentleman, and not take her picture" . . . "Which young lady?" asked Zerbe, looked in the direction indicated—and there was Garbo.

JOHN ROGGE is going to New Orleans, to prosecute the Governor Leche case there . . . Boris Lovet-Lorski, the Russian sculptor who is exhibiting his works here, has invited Helen Keller to send a group of the Blind to "feel" his exhibit . . . Prof. Otto Marburg, noted Viennese neuropathologist, who fled from the University of Vienna, now is continuing his research work in a converted store room at Montefiore Hospital. "It really makes no difference," Professor Marburg tells his friends. "Freedom has nothing to do with the amount of space at your disposal" . . . Lee Stansberg, who is directing the Theater Guild's new Hemingway play, told one of the verbose actors: "Listen—just for the sake of argument, shut up."

LYNN FONTANNE CHARLES FARRELL, who became one of America's best known stars when he appeared in "Seventh Heaven," now owns and operates the Racquet Club, in Palm Springs . . . Farrell has no financial worries. He is happily married. He owns this beautiful estate, complete with lakes, tennis courts and stables. His guests include the foremost people in this country. But still he's not content, for he cannot down the urge to become an actor again . . . And so there, in Palm Springs, Charles Farrell is building a Winter Theater—and will appear in performances as a minor player.

ALFRED LUNT and Lynn Fontanne raised more than $25,000 for the Finnish Relief Fund, when they and their entire company—including the office-staff—contributed their services free, for a week's run of "The Taming of the Shrew" . . . August Frolich, Mayor of Reno, is declaring a divorce-holiday, on the day "Too Many Husbands" holds its premiere there . . .

ONE OF Kenny Baker's friends saw him entering an Eighth ave. bus this week and gasped: "You? In a bus? But you're a famous Hollywood actor" . . . "I'm back in the theater now," Baker corrected. "I'm in 'Du Barry Was a Lady' . . . 'What part do you play?' he was asked . . . 'I'm playing,' replied Baker, dropping his nickel into the coin box. "His Royal Highness, the Dauphin of France."

DATES: Boston's newest and youngest glamour girls, the Galvin quintet of baby beauties who reside in the shadow of Bunker Hill, will welcome a new member sometime next week . . . Or—and Acting Mayor William J. Galvin and Mrs. Galvin have no preference, they say, in the matter—the five Galvin sisters will have a new baby brother . . . The stork's arrival may be coincident with Washington's Birthday . . . City Councilor Maurice Sullivan of Brighton is a day older than 29 today . . . Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy will be in Boston Feb. 20 . . . He will have another checkup at his favorite clinic, and will sail Feb. 24 for somewhere in Europe.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: If the initials of the next medical examiner for the state industrial accident board happen to be either G. D. or H. G.—with the familiar affix, M. D.—your reporter will marvel at the presence of certain members of the medical profession . . . This job—a so-called political plum—is passed along via the civil service route . . . "Calling" the result of a civil service exam would certainly be a feat in second-sight . . . We will be watching.

ELBIE FLETCHER, the Milton ball-tosser, who will be working for Frankie Fusch in Pittsburgh this season, has been released from a local hospital after a minor operation, which turned out successfully . . . Alex Finn's re-entry into the cabaret business has been postponed until the autumn . . . His son, Walter, will continue as right bower of Eddie Davis at the Fox and Hounds Club.

LESS PRACTICAL than any of the dog-racing panaceas seems to be the suggestion of racing dogs at night at Suffolk Downs with 1400 horses stabled within 300 yards of the grandstand . . . Horses have to sleep, and they keep normal hours . . . Hence, while ten or twelve thousand greyhound fans—presumably—are rooting home their favorite with their customary enthusiasm, the high-spirited thoroughbreds are going to slumber peacefully through all the excitement . . . Horsemen say it's silly . . . This column got the rumor early Tuesday afternoon, but passed it up as too ridiculous to rate publication . . . Bruce Weimore has scotched it effectively, to wit: "Under no circumstances will Suffolk Downs consider dog-racing as part of its operation at any time."

FRANCHOT TONE'S AUTOGRAPH has a market value in the Boston mart of a dime . . . It was valued at a quarter before "The Fifth Column" opened . . . It declined to the status of an even swap for a pack of cigarettes—one of the popular, similarly-priced brands . . . Then Franchot got too generous . . . You see the same faces hunting autographs year in and year out in Boston . . . Some of the more persistent pests have graduated into long trousers since they began haunting stage-doors . . . And the females, some of them, are now wearing their hair done-up in the skull-cap vogue (successor to the up-do) . . . Herbert Hoover sounded at times like Al Smith as he talked from the far west over the radio Lincoln's Birthday night . . . I wonder what Mr. Smith's reaction will be to the Farley candidacy . . .

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 15—A few months ago I read a highly sensational magazine story called "I Married A Nazi" by Oscar Schislag. I have no doubt many of my readers also read it. Purporting to be a true story of the Nazi regime, it was certainly blood-curdling to say the least, not absorbing in its interest. Now Darryl Zanuck has bought the film rights to this exciting yarn and expects to get it before the camera within a month. Darryl tells me that George Sanders, the Russian born Englishman, will have the important lead.

Sanders has been at the RKO studio now for over a year making the "Saint" series and this will be the first time that he will have been back on the home lot. He played a German Nazi role in "Lancer Spy" and was very good. He was also in "Confessions of A Nazi Spy" as a Hitler henchman.

ANN MILLER also made reservations. Bill Powell, up and around after a bad spell of the flu, with his head at the Beverly Derby.

HERBERT MARSHALL and his fiancée, Lee Russell hosted a valentine cocktail party; Countess Dorothy Di Frasso celebrated her birthday with a buffet dinner at her Beverly home. Jack Warner was in great spirits, having won his baggammon contest with Cary Grant, who is one of filmdom's best players; Ann Warner and Richard Barthelmess were also in a hotly contested baggammon tournament. Marlene Dietrich, in a filmy black chiffon, escorted by Eric Remarque, again proved she is really one of filmdom's most beautiful women.

LILLI DAMITA, looking gorgeous in white satin, said that she and Errol were still far from making up. I doubt it; Lupe Velez and Billy Seymour a surprising and unexpected twosome at the Beverly Brown Derby; Bette Davis, who sponsored Jane Bryan's career, is now helping a little Pomona girl, Pamela Cavendish, whom she and Harmon Nelson discovered about a year ago. Pamela, who sings, opened at Victor Hugo's last night and of course Bette was there; Mary Martin has written friends she will be back in Hollywood on the 27th; Grace Durkin, who is Mrs. William Henry, and Gertrude Durkin, Mrs. James Ellison, are expecting their babies the last of March.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

BETH KNEW she should not have bought the red hat. In the first place it had cost too much and secondly there wasn't a chance she could save anything this week. Saving for a marriage which never seemed to materialize had become a habit. Beth was always hoping that Fred would propose, but in three years he hadn't even approached the subject, so what could a girl do but go on saving and waiting and hoping. TO GET BACK to the hat: It was really a "stunner" and Beth's gray eyes and fluffy brown hair seemed to take life and color from the vivid red. Passing a window Beth caught a glimpse of herself in the glass and was thrilled with pleasure. "Imagine me looking like that," she thought. "I wish I had a new coat, a fur coat and this is a good time to buy one." She thought about it on and off all night and the next day at lunch time she tried on fur coats and finally bought one, a lovely velvety seal-skin with smart wide shoulders. She needed some stylish new shoes and, from the shoes, it was only a step to a new handbag, kid gloves and even a corsage of red berries. "Heavens above, I must be going mad," thought Beth to herself. "Buying all these clothes, spending money it has been so hard to save and I can't seem to stop—what next?" Next was a lovely black dress, very short and very chic and she vowed that this was the end of her spending orgy. DRESSED in her new attire, Beth arrived at the office Monday morning and created a mild sensation. It was pleasant to be the center of such flattering attention. All day the thrill of looking lovely and knowing it possessed her. Her step was sprightly and her smile a lovely thing to see. So that's how it came about that young Mr. Brown, the new head of the sales department, looked at Beth and really saw her for the first time, fell in love with her and, what is more, married her. # LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

"LIFE became a game in which my hand held no trumps and I knew it, but I didn't throw my cards on the table. I stuck it out." The woman who wrote these words wasn't boasting. Nor was she publicly "picking the scab" of her grief, as so many modern exhibitionists delight in doing. She was simply trying to write an honest, practical working manual for those who, like herself, had lost their way in the dark. And if you've ever gone through a blackout or are in one now, you'll bless her for this brief personal record which she calls "I BEGIN AGAIN." (Whittlesby House. Publishers.) THE BLACKOUT which fell on Alice Bretz was literal . . . a complete and lasting blindness which came without warning and was swiftly followed by the death of the husband she adored, the loss of her home, the necessity of living in diminished quarters without voice to help or hand to help. How could she face it? How can anyone win a trumps hand? There's many a desperate mortal asking that today and the book-shops are filled with beguiling answers. But Alice Bretz wasn't beguiled. She knew that the only answer for bankruptcy such as hers lay in herself . . . in her own honesty, bravery, humor and common sense. From the first, she determined to see things as they were and play the game accordingly. She wouldn't lie or evade or pretend. She wouldn't accept pity or indulgence in it. She wouldn't run away from life or use her grief as a hide-out from reality. The old life would never come back. SO SLOWLY—step by stumbling step, thought by quivering thought—Alice Bretz "began again." Not feeling, at first. Not daring to feel or analyze or ask the reason why. Just making motions. Doing whatever came next. Learning to make a bed . . . dust a table . . . open a door. And to do it all with a cheerfulness that was more than lip-weep. "I had to live with myself," she writes. "I couldn't stand living with a whisper or a groan, that was definite. All right then, I must smile and again find a song in my heart." (Copyright by King Features Synd. Inc.)

HERE'S THE IDEA

This game might best be described as "picture-arithmetic." Each puzzle represents a word. You find that word by adding and taking away certain given letters and the letters in the names of the objects pictured.

For instance, if you were told to subtract ROSE from HORSE, you would simply cross out R, O, S and E, thus leaving the letter H. Then, if you were told to add the letter E, you would have the word HE as your answer.

SOLVE PUZZLES 1-4 BELOW

Note that there's a solution diagram after the equal sign in each puzzle. The diagram contains just as many blank squares as there are letters in the word you're seeking. Observe also that the comic figures on the sidelines supply hints.

MAIL ANSWERS IN WEEKLY SERIES

Robert Montgomery Goes Royal in 'The Earl of Chicago'

Para-Fenway Feature

"The Earl of Chicago," which shares program honors with the Nelson Eddy-Ilona Massey starrer, "Balalaika," on the Paramount and Fenway screens, stars Robert Montgomery in a story he persuaded Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to purchase for him after he made "Night Must Fall."

The title-role fits him like his Bond-st. sack suit. The story is an unusual one, presenting Montgomery, customarily cast in romantic roles, as a former Chicago bootlegger gone straight in the legitimate liquor business who suddenly has an English title and ancestral estate thrust upon him.

Suddenly discovered as the missing Earl of Gorley, he and Edward Arnold, supposedly his ethical legal representative, set out for England to claim the earldom. Astonishing things happen, as you will see when you view the unrelenting of "The Earl of Chicago." This is an unusual, engrossing picture.

"Balalaika" is a film musicomedy in a Graustark of revolution-tent Russia, introducing the enchanting Hungarian prima donna, Ilona Massey, in her first starring role.

Her solo numbers include "Scherzando," "At the Balalaika," and Herbert Stothart's "Tanya." Eddy's numbers are "Ride, Cowboy, Ride," written by Stothart; "Flow, Flow, White Wine," adapted from an old Russian folk song.

They sing a duet "Magic of Your Love," with music by Fians ("Merry Widow") Lehár.

Preston to Make Appearance at Met

Robert Preston, reported to be Dorothy Lamour's newest "heart," will make a personal appearance at the Metropolitan Theater next Tuesday. He and Hollywood's sardonic discoverer are co-stars in the just completed production "Typhoon." Preston is the film capital's latest and handsomest screen find.

ILONA MASSEY and Nelson Eddy share the acting and singing honors in "Balalaika," film musical now at the Paramount and Fenway.

Crime Film At Trans-Lux

A new method of crime detection is dramatized in "Wolf of New York," Republic production co-starring Edmund Lowe and Rose Hobart, which comes to Trans-Lux screen, starting tomorrow.

To thwart fur robbers, a fine electric wire is attached from the furs to the hanger. When the furs are removed, an alarm is given.

In "The Wolf of New York," an innocent man is convicted and executed. The man who defended him, as about to give up the practice of law when a dramatic circumstance places him in the position of district attorney.

Film at Memorial Covers Vatican

For the first time, the Vatican has been covered completely in motion picture in "The Vatican of Pius XII." Keith-Memorial's current newswear feature. With recent news events, so clearly defining the Pontiff's position in the present European turmoil, this two-reel survey of the Vatican is most timely.

There is a sequence showing the Pope receiving an audience, the celebration of a mass in the crypt of St. Peter's and an appearance of Pope Pius before an assembly in the academy of Science.

'VIGIL IN THE NIGHT' HELD SECOND WEEK AT MEMORIAL

Lombard's New Role Thrills Fans

"Vigil in the Night," RKO Radio's impressive film adaptation of Dr. A. J. Cronin's novel co-starring Carole Lombard and Brian Aherne, continues a second week at the Keith-Memorial.

Miss Lombard plays the valiant, conscientious Nurse Lee who shoulders the blame for her younger sisters' (Anne Shirley) professional lapse that costs a child's life. She is beautiful in a remote fashion. She has shed glamour for glorious devotion to duty. Her role gives her no opportunity for lightness and, in consequence, there is a strangely somber quality about her playing that is un-Lombard-like.

It was our guess that her numerous fans would find her unsatisfying in "Vigil in the Night" but that was our error. They are responsible for such good business at Keith-Memorial that the management is holding the picture a second week.

Aherne, as the brilliant young physician who first admires Nurse Lee as a competent nurse and later loves her because she is a lovely and lovable young woman, is splendid.

SCREEN SISTERS—Carole Lombard and Anne Shirley are sisters and nurses in "Vigil in the Night," held over a second week at the Keith Memorial. Ronald Colman is the third co-star in this popular screen version of the Rudyard Kipling classic.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 15—A script of "Escape" has been sent to Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt to read. They have indicated their interest in this powerful book and their willingness to come to Hollywood if they feel their roles are suitable.

Lynn would play the actress, Emily Ritter, who was in a concentration camp, while Alfred will be seen as the doctor, one of the most sympathetic characters in the book. And that isn't all, my friends. Joan Crawford paid L. B. Mayer a visit as soon as he returned from his trip and told him she would like to play the countess. He agreed with her, so I have an idea the part will be hers. What a cast!

Make way for a new serial queen—a successor to Pearl White, Ruth Roland and Kathleen Williams! Republic, who did such a magnificent job with "The Lone Ranger," and the "Dick Tracy" serial, are making plans to bring back "The Exploits of Elaine," Pearl White's old-time thriller, out of course, as a tiddie. The legible bosses tell me they are on the lookout for a woman daredevil who can do all the stunts that Pearl White used to do in the good old days.

Talked with Joan Warner over the purchase of "Male Animal," the theatrical sequel for which Warner paid the tiny sum of $150,000. Jack said that it had been bought for Eddie Albert, the young man who was a W. O. L. for so many weeks. —MAYNARD

YESTERDAY certainly turned out to be an appropriate day for building a snow man . . . but the girls on the committee for the Snow Ball, to be held Leap Year night, didn't wait to have sufficient material, brought to them by the howling blizzard . . .

They made their snow man out of cotton batting so he looks just as white and fat and jolly as he would if his snow was the real McCoy . . . Yet he can stand in the tropical atmosphere of the Balinese Room for the next couple of weeks without fear of melting . . .

Sir Reggie, as he has been christened, is mascot of the ball committee and his seven-foot chubby figure made quite a striking contrast to tiny Patricia Bayne, ticket chairman, who climbed up onto his shoulders to adjust his top hat and monocle . . .

Patricia is doing a grand job of rounding up debts and post debts to organize dinner parties for the ball . . . Yesterday she wore a dusty pink wool dress and shirred hat of the same shade, with a beige lynx jacket . . . Joan Curtis, another deb helping to put Sir Reggie together, made an attractive committee worker in a green and navy checked sport dress and bright red bow in her hair . . . Both she and Pat were on their way to the Junior League to turn in, book reports on their courses in the provisional training course . . .

Deedee Dow came on from the Morning Musicals . . . full of news about the flowery Valentine atmosphere of the audience, and the predominance of springlike hats . . . Her own costume, a black circular skirt topped by a fuchsia blouse, was completed by a fur jacket, hat and pocket book . . .

Many Young Marrieds Attend

CONNIE ANN MacBRIDE, wearing a tailored purple reefer and matching hat with gayly embroidered mittens, stopped in to join Anne Stickney and later accompany her on a trousseau shopping tour . . . Anne is the pretty bride-to-be of Robert Tappan . . .

An attractive trio of young marrieds who took turns plastering cotton on Sir Reggie's rotund form included Mrs. Alan Ellis, Jr., Mrs. Robert Walcott, Jr., and Mrs. Keith Carnegie Steele . . . The ball, Feb. 29, in the Balinese Room, will benefit the Robert Breck Brigham Hospital . . .

Nancy Peabody attended the meeting to do her bit for the good cause before departing for California Sunday . . .

SPEAKING of winter travels, Mrs. Robert Cushman was given many bon voyage messages at the Musicals yesterday morning . . . She leaves this week-end for a trip to South America, and Mrs. F. Wadsworth Busk is shopping for summery togs in preparation for her annual holiday at Sea Island, Georgia . . .

DEBUTANTE MANNEQUINS have to brush up on modelling technique before their contest with professional models at the Polish Karnewal next Tuesday, and here are Peggy Parker and Anne Galt Grant getting a kick out of watching some of their friends strut along an improvised runway at Polish relief headquarters yesterday.

Footlights Juniors in Play

Junior members of the Footlights Club, oldest and most famous of amateur theatrical groups, will give their annual play tomorrow evening in Eliot Hall, Jamaica Plain.

The play is "Nickelodeon," written by Huntington White, member and director of the club. Members of the cast will include Wendy Lee, Elizabeth Reece, Anne Means, Francis Balch, G. Gordon Waters, Jr., Camillo Petri and Colby Walworth. Betsy Walworth and Olney Minot are in charge of properties and other back stage workers are H. Pickering Walker, Jr., director, Donald Ware, scenery and lighting, Betty Payson, Frederick Lord and Theodore Reece.

DEBS IN STYLE SHOW AT PLAY PREVIEW

Three of this year's charming debutantes will be among the mannequins at a combination fashion show and pre-view of this year's Pi Eta Club show, "Say the Word," at a Washington's Birthday party at 83 Commonwealth ave.

You Can Be Beautiful

'Navy Red' Make-Up Now

By ARLINE GOULD

WE'RE ALL in the Navy now . . . at least in our new Spring togs! Such a wave of navy blue hasn't been seen in a blue moon, and this year practically everyone will have at least one outfit in that most satisfactory color . . . and of course, with red accessories. That is the 1940 touch.

You have probably already had trouble with wearing red that clashed with your lipstick and rouge . . . and what a horrible effect there is with the wrong reds. It really sends a shiver down your spine. So we are happy to report that there is now a "Navy Red" make-up available, to match exactly the clear, bright red that is being combined with navy blue.

Moreover, it won't put a noticeable dent in your allowance. You can afford to have a special lipstick and rouge for your bright red, for this brand new lipstick, made by a famous house, sells for only a dollar, and a fancier one for a little more.

The cream rouge, which is miraculously light and spready and so natural looking, is sold for only 50 cents, as is the dry rouge in the same shade. And at the salon where they are sold you can buy a small quantity of their gossamer, clinging face powder in a harmonizing shade. The girl in charge will be as pleased to advise you as to your shade as if you were spending ten times as much.

Call Arline Gould at L1Berty 4000, weekdays except Saturday, before five, or write, enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope, for the name of this product and the salon where you will find it.

Latest Shoes For Budgeter

By ANNICE BRINK
LISTEN, my children, to the tale of what happened to the girl who thought she could get by with her shabby, but still wearable, shoes until Easter. She didn't get the job!

It's no economy at any time to get in public in shoes that are out of shape or even the slightest bit run over at the heels... but it's the sankest idiosyncrasy when you can buy good shoes in the very latest models for so small a price as these I have illustrated today.

These shoes are only three out of a large collection in a Boston shop which caters to the business girl and the woman on a budget. They are the very last word in chic as you know if you read the advance fashions bulletins. And you can buy them... and find them highly satisfactory, too... for under four dollars!

No one would guess that you could get the smart opera pump with the new pyramid heel, for instance, for that price. This comes in patent and also in alligator calf, in black, brown and blue.

Very foot-flattering and grand for informal dancing is the La Conga pump, which comes in a variety of colors. I liked it in black patent, with a slim piping of searlet leather and a delicate bow, but you may have it to match your accessories if you like. This year's shoes, you will note, go in strongly for open toes.

Annie Brink will tell you the name of the downtown shop which carries these shoes if you call Lister 4000, weekdays except Saturday, before five; or write, enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope, for the information.

17 Too Young For 'Steady'

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 17 and my boy friend is 23, and we're very much in love with each other. He lives a considerable distance from my home, so that I am able to see him only once every three months. In the meantime I don't go out with other boys, and my girl friends say I'm very foolish as I'm too young to go "steady." However, other boys don't interest me. What do you think I should do in a case like this?

FENNY.

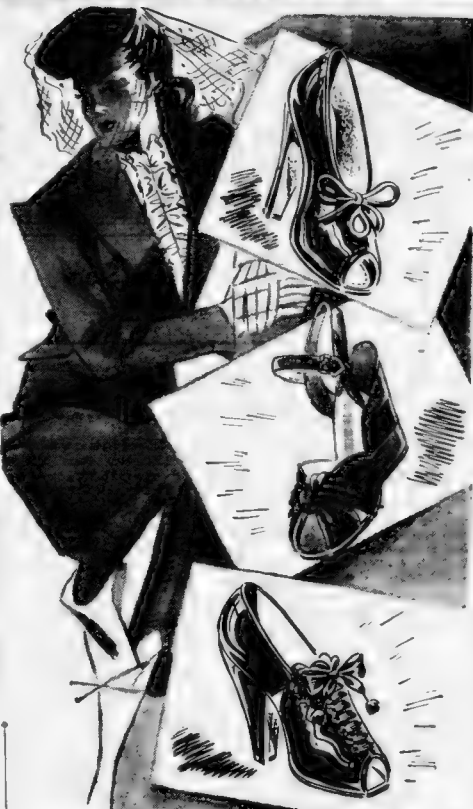

I'm inclined to agree with your girl friends that it would be more sensible for you to go out with other boys than to go "steady" with this one you see only occasionally.

Honoring Newlyweds

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:

An old friend of mine was married about a month ago. She had a quiet wedding, no one attending except her family and a few friends. I gave her a very nice wedding gift, also shower gifts. We entertained my friend and her fiancé several times at dinner at home before their marriage.

The point is, we have been told that it is our duty to invite them to dinner at our home again before they invite us to their home. I was under the impression that they should invite us first.

ALTHEA.
The relatives and friends of the bride and groom go to call on the bride after they are settled in their new home, or after the date mentioned in the At Home cards. If these cards have been sent out, But there is no rule that the friends of the couple should invite them to dine.

Usually there have been so many parties given for the couple before their marriage that, after the wedding, they are happy at the opportunity of returning this hospitality. And so they are the ones who plan dinners and so forth in their new home for their friends.

You and your husband were so generous in hospitality and gifts to these friends before their marriage, that I am sure they will very soon invite you to share their hospitality in their new home.

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:

At a shower given for him by my friends and relatives, what would be the proper thing to say when thanking them all, after the gifts have been opened?

DOROTHY

Far the better and more gracious plan is for you to thank each giver individually, as you open each gift. This personalizes your thanks, makes them more timely.

That is, as you open a gift, thank the giver for her thoughtfulness, and then chat about the gift enthusiastically.

Then, a day or two after the shower, you should write a note of thanks to each giver.

Turkey Curry Tempting Dish

By MARTHA LEE

WITH the abundance of turkey and its accompanying attractive prices, appetites can be indulged to the fullest. Turkey served cold sliced retains much of its original elegance, but monotony in any style of food service depresses the heartiest of appetites. Turkey curry is a deliciously moist, flavorsome style to serve the cooked meat.

Ingredients for this interesting dish, which is an adaptation of the famous curries of India, are such as are found on every kitchen shelf, except perhaps the curry powder.

CURRY POWDER

Curry powder is a mixture of several spices; its yellowish color comes from its tumeric powder. The flavor is very characteristic. Unless you are familiar with it, use less than the recipe calls for—more can always be added to suit the taste. Curries have the characteristic yellowish color. With a small amount of it in the dish paprika can be used to intensify the color without changing the flavor materially.

In adding the curry powder to the dish, exercise jumps due to a slight oiliness can be avoided by mixing it (and the paprika) with a small amount of water or the liquid in the recipe.

RICE FOR CURRY

Curry calls for rice, preferably rather dry and with little or no seasoning to complete the meat and sauce. To produce this kind of rice, it should be cooked in the following manner using—

1 cup rice
1½ cups water
Wash rice thoroughly until water runs clear. Drain. Place rice, water and speck of salt in covered, heavy kettle. When water boils vigorously, reduce flame as low as it is possible. Cook 40 minutes at which time water will be absorbed. Uncover and let rice dry and fluff, about 10 minutes. Turn out on serving dish. If properly cooked, a brown crust covers the bottom of the kettle.

This curry dish is one that turns a meal into a party occasion for the month of holidays. Chutneys, a sweetish relish, are invariably served with curry and are to be found bottled in nearly all grocery stores. If home prepared is not available. To complete the meal we suggest a green salad with a mild dressing, and the dessert—Boston cream pie.

TURKEY CURRY

1½ cups cooked turkey meat
1 can mushroom soup (large)
1 tsp. or more curry powder
½ tsp. paprika
¼ tsp. ginger
2 tsp. minced onion.
1 tsp. lemon juice
Boiled rice
Heat soup. Mix curry powder and paprika to a smooth paste with a small amount of water. Add to soup with turkey meat, cut in uniform pieces, not too small; ginger and onion. Heat thoroughly. Just before serving add lemon juice. Serve very hot with rice.

This recipe serves four. The rice may be heaped into the center of the dish, with the curry around it; or ring-mold style with the curry in the center. To make the latter, oil the ring-mold thoroughly, press cooked hot rice in gently, filling to top. Let stand a few minutes, then invert on serving dish.

BOSTON CREAM PIE

Using a one-egg cake recipe, make 2 (8-inch) layers; spread cream filling between layers, sift powdered sugar over top and cut in wedges.

CREAM FILLING

½ cup sugar
1½ cup flour
4 tsp. salt
4 egg yolks or 2 eggs
2 cups milk scalded
1 tsp. vanilla
Combine dry ingredients and mix with slightly beaten egg yolks; stir in enough hot milk to make a thin paste. Then add paste to remaining hot milk and cook over boiling water 5 minutes, stirring constantly, cook 10 minutes longer, or until mixture is thickened, stirring occasionally. Cool and add vanilla. For a richer filling, add 2 tablespoons butter to cooked curd. Makes 2½ cups filling—enough for 2 (8-inch layer) cakes.

A Complete Short Story
Daily on This Page

By CLIFFORD
CLEVINGER

JERRY NORTHRUP and I sat in easy chairs on the terrace and watched the other two go through the scene. It was the big dramatic spot in the amateur movie they were rehearsing—amateur only in the sense that they were doing it on their own.

Doris Murton had been in stock for many years with one recent period in a Hollywood studio. Even Sid Northrup, Jerry's husband, had been in a short or two.

Jerry leaned forward intently, placed her hand on my arm. "Doris is marvelous, Tom," she said breathlessly. "Why—why, Tom, didn't the studio take up her option?"

I hesitated. "She's not beautiful," I replied.

"Neither is Hepburn or others I could name," Jerry declared. I shrugged. "Tell me, Tom Shannon," she pleaded.

"She's not beautiful and she hasn't a name," I finally said. "She's too old to play juveniles and not old enough to handle character parts. You can't break into Hollywood at thirty without something more than acting ability."

I stopped there. I didn't go on to say what I was thinking, that Doris Murton planned to get the something she lacked by using Sid Northrup. If she had to take him away from Jerry she'd do it. She was hard—drove herself mercilessly in her career. She didn't care for Sid—in fact, she cared for no one—but the play she was making for him now wasn't fooling any of our crowd, although Jerry hadn't seemed to notice.

I looked at Jerry with her short, straight hair, angular figure, homey features. We'd all wondered how she'd captured Sid Northrup. Sid was a Greek god, all-around athlete, letter man at State University last year, and with a father who had plenty. I'd known Jerry since she was a kid living next door to me in a little town upstate. I was just out of high school then and a young daredevil. But that was before I'd come to Hollywood to be a stunt man.

"Sid is good looking," Jerry went on, I thought a little wistfully. "But honest, Tom, he can't act at all."

"He screens marvelously," I answered.

READY TO SHOOT

The scene ended. Doris Murton came up and dropped into a chair beside me. She was slaving on this picture—carrying the whole thing herself—and she was tired. She lit a cigarette, inhaled deeply, blew the smoke out slowly through her nose and looked at me. "What do you think, Tom?"

"The scene's ready to shoot," I said. "You'll kill it if you rehearse much more."

"Sid," Doris called. "Tom thinks the scene's ready to shoot. Shall we drive over to my place and do it now?"

The Cast of Characters in "Two Can Act"

"It's all right with me if Jerry'll come along," Sid replied. "I've been neglecting her too much lately."

"You two go ahead," Jerry said. "Tom has to catch a train in about an hour. I'll take him to it and then stop by."

"But Jerry!" Sid protested. "Wives know best, Sid," Doris declared and jumped up. They climbed into her car and drove away.

"Sid's terribly self-conscious in those love scenes when I'm around," Jerry said guilelessly.

I got up and spoke gruffly. "If you'll excuse me, Kid, I'll pack." I went up to my room and tossed my week-end things into my bag. I felt like punching Sid Northrup in the nose. They hadn't been married a year, and here he was fooling around with another woman.

I glared at myself in the glass as I slammed on my hat. "Maybe I should punch Tom Shannon in the nose," I growled at my reflection. "After all, you're the guy who's responsible."

I recalled how it had all started. Jerry came to see me early in the previous year and asked me to get Sid Northrup a chance to act in the movies. Studios were using college athletes in small parts that year.

"He photographs wonderfully," Jerry pleaded and showed me a sheaf of photos.

I got him a part in a short or two, but Greek god athletes were a dime a dozen that season, so nothing came of it. But Jerry used that favor to get him to visit her during spring vacation. They came back engaged and were married in June.

But an insistent auto horn out front told me Jerry had the car around, so I ran out and tossed my bag in the rumble. Jerry scooted over on the seat, and I slid under the wheel.

"I always get a thrill when you're driving," Jerry said with a little smile. "It's so dangerous to ride with a stunt man who crashes planes and turns over autos. In your last picture your car turned over three times after it went in that ditch. Weren't you scared, Tom?" I shook my head. "Isn't it hard to do?"

"Nothing to it," I said modestly. "You just turn off the ignition before you get in the ditch and slow down by switching the wheel right and left. You skid along sideways and when your ready to turn over, whip the wheel hard to the left.

You'll turn over at once at ten miles an hour on a steep bank."

"Oh, you just make it sound easy."

"Not at all," I declared. "Anyone can do it." I was bowling along at about sixty-five.

"Better slow down," Jerry warned. "The State police are making a lot of arrests for reckless driving."

HARD TO KEEP

I eased my foot on the accelerator, but we were soon at the station. The train pulled in at once, so we had no time to talk, and I was just as glad. I waved good-bye from the coach steps. "Poor kid," I said to

"We?" I said sarcastically.

He flushed and shrugged. "It seemed a shame to ruin the picture for lack of a little money. Jerry insisted I do it."

We arrived in a few minutes and Doris Murton drew me aside. "Tom," she said. "We need an auto crash to complete the picture."

"Listen, sister," I declared emphatically. "I've done a lot of foolish stunts in my life, but always for money. Charly's out where I'm concerned."

"It's that the way you feel," she said slowly, "Sid will crash the "Jerry's in the hospital—bad auto accident!" he gasped. "I've got to go to her. She's under arrest, too."

"You can use my car," I said, producing the keys.

"But Sid!" Doris cried. "The picture—can't you phone?"

"She was fighting hard to keep him. 'Those things are never as bad as they seem at first.'"

"But Jerry needs me!" Sid cried.

"The picture can wait!"

"You know, Sid, we won't be able to rent this studio again for months. It means everything to me—this picture—"

"To hell with the picture!" Sid shouted at the door.

"PLENTY SMART"

We ran across the lot toward my car. "For a Phi Beta Kappa, Jerry, does the dumbest things!" he wailed. "The Spring before we were married when I was up to see her, she dived in that little lake and almost broke her neck. I had to pull her out."

"What?" I gasped. I'd taught Jerry to dive in that lake myself. She knew every foot of it, but Sidney was too excited to notice my question. He jumped in my car. "But you haven't told me a thing about it," I protested.

He shoved the telegram at me and roared out onto the highway. I uncrampled it and read:

ARRESTED RECKLESS DRIVING STOP SIDESWIPED POLICE CAR AND TURNED OVER IN DITCH STOP SUSPECT SERIOUS INJURIES

"Turned over in ditch—suspect serious injuries," I read aloud. "No, she wasn't hurt. Not if she'd crashed the way I'd explained to her, and she was smart enough to remember that." I looked up. Doris Murton stood in the studio doorway, the weight of defeat lining her face. I shoved the telegram into my pocket and grinned.

"Yes, Jerry was smart, plenty smart," I told myself. "For a girl who had only a major in psychology and a Phi Beta key she was doing all right."

AUSTEN LAKE

Mrs. D., Or One Against the World

I HAVE A LETTER, ONE FULL OF SIMPLE dignity, maternal strength and spiritual resignation. It comes from a Negro lady, mother of the Tuft's third year engineering scholar and athlete, a short and self-explanatory note which, by reprinting here, I trust I am not breaching a confidence. Yet it deserves attention.

AUSTEN LAKE

Last Friday as preamble to the B. A. A. games at the Garden I wrote a brief, trite paragraph as a shirttail to an uninspired piece which read, "One thing more and here I sass myself back for saying there are no local track stars. There's one, a kangaroo-legged Negro kid named Eddie Dugger in the hurdle event—a fatherless lad, eldest of a large Medford brood, whose Mother (with a capital M) wears her fingers down to the wrists keeping vittles on the table, clothes on backs, and Eddie on his way to family fortune. The boy, with another year to win his Mechanical Engineering degree, is an even guess to win the steeplechase event."

It was rather banal, a random straw in a windy yarn. But it brought a letter, written in a copper plate hand, as follows:

"Sir—Thank you for the nice remarks you wrote about Eddie and myself in Friday's paper. What you said is indeed true. Although I am a graduate of the Portia Law School—attended the Sargent school of physical education and have worked for the Federal Government (P. O. Dept.), State House (Civil Service and Income Tax) and in Medford's City Hall, I am able at this time to obtain work at only $15.00 a week to take care of six children (Eddie is the oldest).

Who Won the War?

"I HAVE BEEN ON THE P. O. CIVIL SERVICE list for twelve years, but Mr. Tague refuses to appoint a woman (My rating is 1008 and I am a veteran's widow. On the State and City Civil Service lists my rating is 93 per cent.

"My late husband held the honored position of major in the National Guard 372nd Infantry and fought from the first to the last day of the World War, holding the rank of Lt. Colonel when he died. He was also a boy scout executive and a member of the Medford Planning Board.

"I receive no pension or aid from the government and so far no tangible evidence of the position I have been promised and am qualified for. I am telling you this because I know you are interested in us and the struggle I am making. Something indeed is wrong when the family of so honored a man as my late husband, Colonel Dugger is deprived of its chance in life. Sincerely (Mrs.) Madeline Dugger."

Yes, something is wrong and it looks like a job for the American Legion or the V. E. W. For a war doesn't end with the final furling of flags, the last roll of drums and the grand victory parade. The war goes on and on, to be fought by soldiers' widows and soldiers' children, often a grimmer and more sordid battle than those on some foreign field where the end is sometimes swift and merciful. The war goes on in the quiet desperation of men's and women's hearts long after a Nation's tears have dried and politicians' war-time promises are forgotten.

Citation for Valor

THE HEROES OF THE LAST WORLD WAR are not the be-medaled fighters. Real heroes are the unassuming, simple and patient folk like Mrs. Madeline Dugger who never receive any citations in Life's Army orders, never stand before a regiment while some carefully tailored General reads sonorously, "In defense of the Home sector Mrs. Madeline Dugger displayed courage beyond and above the line of duty by a single handed repulse of starvation, discouragement and disease. Against great odds she continues to hold her hill in the face of continued assault and with little hope of relief."

And they think the Lost Battalion was heroic when, isolated and surrounded, it stood off overwhelming odds until help came. Round about the country today there are other Lost Battalions, isolated and surrounded by circumstance and political mockery—beleaguered folk like Mrs. D. who have no retreat and no other alternative but conquer or perish. The odds are one against the world.

Youth in Search of Work

WELL THAT IS ONE LETTER. Here's another: "I am a young man, five years out of high school and ambitious to find work—anything with an honest dollar in it. I've been thinking it over lately and have decided, if I can manage it, to ship for Finland, and join the army there. My Father, a veteran of the U. S. A. F., doesn't want me to, but I'm tired of hanging around . . . Can you give me the names of any Boston Finns who might be recruiting for their army or any advice on how to get a sailor's job on a ship bound for Sweden . . . J. J. Cambridge."

The answer to that is simple! No I can't, without risking a visit from an FBI agent! But why, unless to soothe one's boredom, must a lad go off to Finland when the U. S. army is recruiting lads with promises of opportunity, education and an honest dollar. My advice to American youth is, "stay away from all wars." The reward is always disillusionment and bitterness.

Postpone Argonne Bouts for Finn Fund To Tomorrow Night

Forced to postpone his Finnish relief bouts because of prevailing weather conditions, Promoter Eddie Mack of the Argonne A. A. announced today that the show would go on tomorrow night at Mechanics Building instead of tonight as scheduled.

The card, which promises to furnish some pretty good contests, is topped with a brace of ten-rounders, which will see Georgie Salamone tangling with Al Gauthier, and Larry Bolvin swapping leather with Irish Jimmy Gilligan.

Daley Enters N. E. Ring Trials Here Monday

Bill Daley of Roxbury, New England and Eastern All-America champion at 126 pounds, has entered the second elimination series for the N. E. amateur championships which will be staged under Irish-American A. A. auspices at the Arena Monday.

Daley is the first of five Bay State boys who fought in the San Francisco finals to enter the New England lists. But Al Priest, Johnny Leonard, Johnny Beckles and Paul Conley are expected to follow suit, either next Monday or in one of the later eliminations.

But these experienced boys will have their hands full trying to qualify. Many new boys have come to the front this past season, and they will make strong bids for N. E. qualifying spots.

Among the latest entries received were those of George Wood, Cambridge; Freddie Williams, Roxbury; Clinton Ferry, Boston, and Fred Barle, Jr., Sagamore.

Mack is the first in this section of the sports world to step up and say he'll help the Finns.

Herbert Hoover, chairman of the Fund, sent Mack a telegram of congratulations and best wishes. Hoover may come to Boston to be among the notables at ringside.

The co-feature tens loom as classics.

There'll be as much pure punching and heavy hitting as in world's championship encounters, and both Salamone and Bolvin are in position to leap into Finland's high society by scoring victories.

The odds today were 9-10 on the Salamone-Gauthier bout, and take your pick; and even money on Bolvin and Gilligan, the latter an explosive bundle of dynamite from the Lackawanna steel mills of Buffalo.

Gauthier is a seasoned veteran who does his fighting out of Holyoke and is split in two previous bouts with Salamone, losing in November last year and then bringing the series up to a one-one count in a return bout in December. Both were reported as five-star thrillers, held in New Bedford.

Kaplan, Britt to Clash Over 15-Round Route

WORCESTER, Feb. 15—Mike Kaplan, Roxbury contender for the New England welterweight crown, tangles with the champion Frankie Britt, Fall River, at Mechanics Hall, tomorrow night in a 15-round main event.

Mike is reported to be in the greatest shape of his short but spectacular career, belting around his sparring partners with gusto.

Over the 15-round route Britt stands a good chance of catching up with Kaplan, and being a terrific hitter with either hand, Frankie may chill the challenger if he connects.

Ch. My Own Brucie America's Best Dog

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—A new champion of American dogdom—Ch. My Own Brucie, a magnificent black Cocker Spaniel owned by He san E. Mellenthin of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., named best in show as the 64th Westminister Kennel Club's three-day show closed at Madison Square Garden.

The popular dog was also chosen best American bred in show, as Judge Dr. Samuel Milbank took only about 20 minutes to nod to Brucie over the winners of the other five major classes.

Brucie last year was named best of group but bowed in the final judging to Ch. Ferry Von Rauffel-fen of Glriads, Doberman Pinscher owned by Mrs. M. Hartley Dodge of Madison, N. J. Ferry did not compete this year.

The new champion, winner over 2738 entries in 89 breeds, triumphed largely through his perfect condition, fine head and shoulders and strong hindquarters. Brucie was also best at the outdoor Morris and Essex show—largest show in America.

Ch. Brucie, winner of the sporting dog class, defeated the best of the hound group; Ch. Utz Von Dom, a Doxer from Milwaukee, best of the working dogs; Ch. Normay Saddler, a smooth fox terrier from Long Island that was best among the terrier group; Ch. Burlingame Helzapoppin, a New Jersey Brussels Griffon, winner among the toys, and the show, Ch. Lie Wol Leason, a Philadelphia entry that took the non-sporting group honors.

Dr. S. Milbank Enters Best Dog In Eastern Show

Greater Boston exhibitors who sought honors at New York's Westminister show are returning home to hold the fort against the charge of the blue-ribbon brigade in the Eastern Dog Club's exhibition at Mechanics Building Sunday and Monday.

Local exhibitors will match their caliber stars against the cream of the crop in dogdom, against dogs from every section of the country in the battle for blue ribbons and the accompanying prestige.

Among the foremost out-of-town exhibitors will be Dr. Samuel Milbank, the chief Westminister judge who had the unenviable task of picking the best dog out of 2738 assorted specimens in New York.

Dr. Milbank enters his Labrador Retriever, Ch. Earlsmoor of Ardon. Mrs. Richard C. Bondy, another Empire State exhibitor well-known in these parts, will show her noted Wildoaks fox terriers, including Ch. Fox Hunter of Wildoaks, a breed standout.

Marie J. Leary, winner of the perpetual challenge trophy at Westminister for outstanding work in obedience trials, seeks honors with her string of German Shepherds.

12,592 See 'Golden Girl'

Making an ideal Valentine gift for a gathering of 12,592 who loved the Hub's worst storm in years to get a glimpse of her, the incomparable Sonja Henie and her Hollywood Ice Revue of 1940, a gorgeous skating production with a entourage of sixty-five ice ballet dancers, opened the first of a sought performance at the Garden.

It was truly a grand tribute to the world's leading sports figure of the day, and placed her now firmly in the No. 1 spot as the skating leading attraction.

As Henie seemed to sense what her audience went through in order to get a peek at her, for she was chafing in every number.

In order to take care of the late corner, the show was held up some 20 minutes. But, from this point on until a little past the 11 o'clock hour, her new production enhanced the large audience.

The reigning queen of the ice was the whole show, making five appearances. Foremost of these was the largo number with Stewart Reburn, the former Canadian pairs champion and Olympic team member.

Also to make a decided hit was the presentation for the first time on ice by the dazzling angel and her skating partner, "The Scherazade Suite." Of the three, the Rhapsody, which depicts a scene in a gypsy camp at night, is the tops.

6 QUAD MEET CHAMPS TO DEFEND TITLES HERE

Six of twelve first place winners in the 1939 meet will return to action in the Fifth Annual Quadrangular Track and Field Meet among the varsity and freshman teams of Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth, and Cornell in the Boston Garden, Saturday night, February 24. In addition, two men who tied for first places in 1939 and three first place winners from the 1939 meet will compete this year.

Capt. Jay Shields of Yale, who holds the 45-yard high hurdle record of 3.7 seconds, will face Donald Weadon of Cornell, runner-up last year; Dick Osborn of Yale, who was third; Capt. Robin Harlmann of Dartmouth, who was fourth, and Richard Crow, Dartmouth's sensational sophomore.

WILL TRY FOR RECORD

Capt. Jim Lightbody of Harvard, who made a new 600-yard record of 1 minute 12.4 seconds last year, will defend his title and attempt to lower his own record against a field which probably will include Capt. Walter Zittel of Cornell and Arthur Madden, Yale's brilliant sophomore.

Harold Woson, Dartmouth's versatile athlete, who won the mile in 4 minutes 24.4 seconds last year and who was third in the 1000-yard run, will defend his title against Emery Wingerter of Cornell.

WEST DEFENDS TITLE

Other returning first place winners include Fred West of Cornell in the shot put, Bill Shallow of Harvard, who set a new meet record of 55 feet 5 inches a year ago, in the 35-pound weight throw, and Donald Blount of Dartmouth in the broad jump. Blount also tied for first place in the high jump and Tom Lussen of Yale tied for first in the pole vault.

WINGERTER IN MILE

Returning second place winners besides Weadon in the hurdles and Wingerter in the mile, include Willard Schmidt of Cornell in the 1000-yard run, Kirk Hershey of Cornell in the broad jump, and Nat Heard of Harvard in the shot put.

The shot put and the weight throw will be held in Briggs Cage at Harvard, Saturday afternoon. The other events will be held at the Garden in the evening starting with the broad jump at 7:30 o'clock.

Waltham Can Lift Cup By Defeating Needham

Still boasting an undefeated record, Waltham high school's hockey team will be favored to retire the Harry Lawson Trophy at the Arena tomorrow night when the Watch City six clashes with Needham in the final of the Bay State League playoffs.

And to insure a complete evening for the fans, the other six entries in the circuit will be matched in a consolation series—for exercise.

WHIPPED WELLESLEY

A week back, Waltham's favoritism to capture the Lawson mug took a terrific slump when a fourth place Wellesley outfit pinned a 2-2 tie on the winners of the George V. Brown trophy.

This deadlock was the only snarl on an otherwise perfect Waltham record.

Last Monday, Coach Walter Brinn's boys avenged this black mark by stamping a 4-1 defeat on Wellesley with a final period barrage to regain its prestige.

With the club moving on high again, Needham should not offer any more trouble than in its previous attempt to drive Waltham from the league lead.

In closing its regular schedule campaign, Waltham stopped Needham by a 2-1 count.

Petley Grant, Hes Rousseau and Bob Connor, on the Watch City first line, combine to form the best forward wave in the loop. All three are rated among the top scorers and boost the Brian aggregation to the most feared in the league.

Needham, edging out B. C. High after two contests, will probably repeat its performance of last year when the nextet was runner-up to Framingham.

WALTHAM TOO GOOD

Needham shaped up as a title threat from the start but failed to come along as the season progressed.

Larry Arra, Don Lumsden and Mel McLeod, provided a whoring punch in front of Goals John Kersey that brought the team into second place in the standings but hardly holds enough power to break Waltham's unbeaten streak.

In the other three games, B. C. High should furnish another thrilling contest when the Eagles take to the ice against Wellesley.

Both clubs provided plenty of excitement in the play-offs and will be more than anxious to come out with the prize in this tilt.

Second division clubs will find Walpole meeting Framingham and Quincy shooting against Watertown.

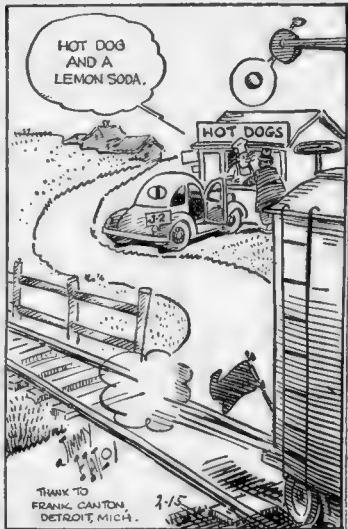

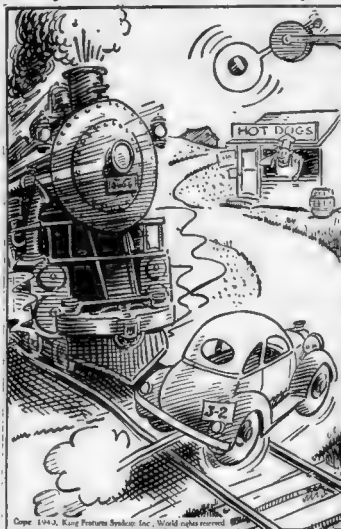

Saugus high school has three open dates on its 1940 grid schedule—Sept. 21, 28 and Nov. 2. Managers interested may contact Faculty Manager Bernie Friberg at the school.

Storm Stops 'Angel'

Paul Bowser's weekly wrestling show, scheduled last night at the Arena, was called off because of the storm.

In the main bout Bibber McCoy of Cambridge was to have met the 'Angel,' latest star of the Bowserian brigade.

They'll Do It Every Time

Cornell, Princeton Remain In Running for Hoop Crown

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Whether the experts have been too quick in conceding Dartmouth another Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League championship remains to be seen. But one thing is certain—no one is conceding second place.

Showing its new found scoring strength again last night, Cornell trounced Yale, 57-41. Princeton just as handily turned back Harvard, 44-24. This means that both Cornell and Princeton still are in the running for the title and in any case are headed for a neck and neck elimination for runner-up.

The contest last night was the second straight in which Cornell's Big Reds have amassed more than 50 points. They thumped Penn, 62-42, Saturday night and evidently have hit the stride predicted for them before the season opened. Jim Bennett and Howie Dunbar accounted for 32 points between them against Yale.

Cornell will have its do-or-die chance tomorrow night when it invades Hanover, N. H., to battle Dartmouth's Indians on their own reservation.

Dartmouth has won five and lost one game; Cornell has won four and lost two. A victory for the Reds would throw the race into confusion again, or a triumph for the Indians would just about settle the first place contention.

Princeton, with only one defeat and four victories, remains to be disposed of, but was swamped in its first test, against Dartmouth, and never has shown the power of either the Indians or the rejuvenated Reds. The 44 points the Tigers collected against weak Harvard last night was the most they have garnered in league competition any time this winter. Johnny Meyerholz got 20 of them.

State Champs Enter Lynn Arena Fights

The Pioneer A. A. of Lynn stages its third elimination of the diamond belt amateur boxing tournament tomorrow night at the Lynn Arena with all eight classes in competition.

Some of the best known almon pure bellers in New England will be on hand to battle for the coveted prizes, among whom are Charlie Morris, Natick; Romeo Paris, Fitchburg; Carl Interelli, Natick (state champion), 147 pounds; Pat Devine (N. E. light-heavy titleholder); Bill Weinberg, Chelsea; Tommy Albanese, East Boston; Gene Morris, Natick; Jim Marks, Roxbury; Lou Vivolo, Boston (state champion, 160 pounds).

Warmup Round Brings Out Best

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 15 (AP)—The Western Open golf scramble started unofficially today with the pro-amateur competition, a normally innocuous event which held special significance because a little extra change dangled in front of the professional entrants.

Sponsors offered $75 to the professional turning in the day's lowest score and $25 to the runner-up. Kibitzers at the River Oaks course felt the additional prize money insured a healthy output on the part of the star-jammed field and possibly would provide a clue to the winner of the $5000 open.

Practically every big name pelted off against the layout's 35-67-71 par, a figure hard to better because of fast, rolling greens and a profusion of dog-legged holes.

ALL-STAR PLAY GAME FOR FINNS

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 15 (AP)—The 1939 World Series will be fought all over again, as far as the managers are concerned, in the all-star game for the benefit of the Finnish relief fund between picked teams from the National and American Leagues here on March 17.

Joe McCarthy of the New York Yankees and Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds have been chosen to pilot the two star-spangled outfits.

NOT SO MANY YANKS
There were offered the posts and they promptly accepted, McKechnie displaying a commendable fortitude in view of the lacing his Reds took from McCarthy's Yanks last October.

The national leagues won't have to tackle quite so many Yankees this time as they faced in the World Series and in last year's all-star game. As tentatively planned, no more than four players will be chosen from each team in the two leagues, and only one performer will be brought from each of the five clubs training on the Pacific Coast.

FOLLOWS ALL-STAR PATTERN
Otherwise, the contest here will follow closely the pattern of the annual all-star game. The rival managers will have full authority to pick their starting lineups and to tangle their men as they choose.

Edmund Kemmerer, M. Landis will have absolute control, even to naming the umpires and frowning from a front box. Selections of the two teams will be somewhat informal, according to the plans of Joe Williams, chairman of the sports division of the Finnish fund. Joe wants all of the baseball writers who are in Florida at the end of this month to get together and pick a couple of squads. His only stipulation will be that they include a half-dozen or so of the stand-out rookies, such as Dom DiMaggio who is coming up to the Boston Red Sox.

Sated to Start South by Train, B's Rookies May Use Dogsled

By HERB FINNEGAN

Duffy Lewis looked disconsolately out on snowbound Gaffney st. He was thinking aloud. "Why couldn't it have held off until tomorrow? Why couldn't we have left with Jimmy Neary?"

(Neary is the Bees' trainer, who took off for the southland just before the blizzard.) It was easy to sympathize with the Bees' secretary, for tomorrow morning he will have to mush his way to the South Station to lead the rookie band to Bradenton, Fla., whereas 24 hours back spring had arrived at Gaffney st. and summer seemed to be only two blocks away.

No telling what complications the storm may cause. Suppose boys like George Barnicle from Fitchburg and Alva Javery from North Oxford can't make the South Station in time. Suppose the trains aren't running. Bob Quinn is gone, Neary is gone, the trunks are gone. What if the players are held back? Practice is scheduled to start Monday morning at Bradenton. Stengel will be waiting for the boys. Or can he make it himself? Nobody's heard from him lately. He's supposedly in Kansas City. What if conditions are the same in the Mid-west as they are here? Worry, worry, worry.

Well, fair or foul, here is a list of the boys who are scheduled to leave in Duffy's grip tomorrow: George Barnicle, Fitchburg; Stan Andrews, Lynn; Arthur Johnson, Winchester; Joe Callahan, East Boston; Tom Earley, Roxbury; James Hickey, Abington; Al Roberge, Lowell; Alva Javery, North Oxford.

In addition, Jack Onslow, new Hartford coach; Jacob Simons of Boston and George Murphy of Lewiston, will be in the group. In New York the delegation will be joined by Sebby Sisti, Chet Ross, Mike Sandlock and Joe Rullo. Joe Antolick will swing aboard at Philadelphia and Frank Lamanna at Washington.

Waiting for them at Bradenton, they hope, will be Chet Clemens, Bill Wietelmann, Les Scarcella, Ralph Hodgins, Carvell Rowell, Bob Loane, Joe Fryer, Nick Strincevich, Allen Viegol, Joe Gullledge, Hubert Bates, Phil Masl, Jewell Wolfe, Will Boehringer, Coach George Kelly. Most of these boys are coming in from the mid-West and West Coast, and, naturally, will use a different route.

Whether they'll all be on hand for the first bell Monday was a moot question today, but Mr. Lewis was hoping for the best.

While the boys were wondering whether to bring snowshoes or golf clubs South, the signed contract of Jim Tobin was brought into Bees headquarters by dog sled. Tobin is the 27-year-old, six-foot, right-handed pitcher obtained from the Pirates a few months back. His home is in Oakland, Cal. He is due to report at camp March 1.

Another West Coast boy, Joe Sullivan, of Bremerton, Wash., also had signed on the dotted line today. The southpaw won only six while losing nine for the Bees last season, but at times looked as if he would qualify for a starter's post. Bigger things are expected of him this season.

Just after Duffy Lewis had forwarded Sullivan his train fare east word was received from the left-hander that he had decided to drive all the way to Bradenton from the mountain fastnesses. No wonder Duffy is nipping at the bottle of profanity after a lifetime of abstinence.

There will be plenty of debate caused by that new one-foot-on-the-rubber pitching rule. Some of the boys will be taking a hop, skip and jump before they unload.

The Red Sox should be well coached at Sarasota. In addition to Joe Cronin, Coaches Herb Pennock, Hughie Duffy, Tommy Daly, Moe

Berg and Frank Shellenbach will be on hand.

Johnny Orlando, assistant Red Sox trainer, will leave for Sarasota one week from tomorrow with bat-boy Freddie Stack and Wes Palmer, Rochester, N. H., royal roofer. They will drive down in Palmer's car. Johnny will send the 12 trunks ahead Tuesday.

The temperature at Sarasota was 50 the last time Eddie Collins wired the Fenway office.

Danny MacFayden is golfing at San Bernardino, Cal., while waiting for the advance guard of the Fitchburg Duffy, Tommy Daly, Moe

Bruins Idle While Rangers Battle Wings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Having tried about everything else, the Canadiens now are staking their hopes of getting out of the National Hockey League cellar on a trio of amateurs.

They'll have three rookies in the game tonight against the Blackhawks, which ought to stand as a pretty high mark for late season reinforcements.

Manager Jules Dugal signed Gordie Polley out of the St. Hyacinthe team in the Provincial Senior League last night and already had taken on Smiley Meeneke and Tony Demars of the same league in recent days.

While Chicago is helping test the novices at Montreal, the Rangers will be seeking to break their tie for the league lead tonight in a game against the Redwings at Madison Square Garden.

The Bruins caught up with the Rangers Tuesday night while New York was idle.

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 15—Stepping into the paddock at Hialeah Park, I met one of my favorite touts. "I never bet on Russian horses," said the tout. "They never reach the Finnish line."

Dr. George E. Lewis, veterinarian from New Hampshire, came along and told me Crepe looked like a winner over Floradina . . . And the doctor was right.

I believe I like Miami over any other resort in America (with of course, the exception of Scituate) because it is like coming home when I arrive here . . . Go anywhere in the Miami area and you meet hundreds of people from Boston and New England . . . At Hialeah Park I met Paddy Coleman, Dr. Pat Buckley of Coolidge Corner, Dr. Charles D. Smith of Jamaica Plain, Dan Carroll, Jim Connors, Bobby Goldman, Charles F. Adams and Mrs. Adams, who came to Florida aboard their yacht; Howard Johnson, Benny Gaines, former owner of the Club Mayfair in Boston and now hand in hand with Jack Dempsey in the operating of the swanky Dempsey-Vanderbilt at the beach; Charley Turner, Tom Shehan, formerly of the Nationwide News Service and the Boston Transcript; Harvey Campbell, Mickey Brooks, Bill Scully, King Dave Wilson and his charming missus whom he calls Lady; J. H. Carr, who owns Holton and other speedy horses; George Alexandra, the trainer; Dave Morris, Harry Cohen, brother of Sam Cohen of the Daily Record, and a lot more of the neighbors children.

Tom Thorp is missing as he is still confined to New York where he has been recovering from an operation . . . Ed Curley of the New York Journal-American tells me Tom is expected to check into Florida by the latter part of the week . . . Tom will act as presiding steward at Tropical Park.

Clay Puett, who invented the electrical Park, starting gate, dropped into the press box at Hialeah Park, and explained to me the advantages of his new gate . . . Puett said he expected to install it at Narragansett Park and at Suffolk Downs this year . . . He has already talked to Judge James E. Dooley and to Billy Ames of Narragansett, and to Charles F. Adams and Charley McLennan of Suffolk Downs . . . McLennan is acting secretary at Hialeah Park as well as at Suffolk Downs, and says the gate has helped make the present Florida meeting a success.

Florida's Coldest Winter in 65 Years

FLORIDA HAS had its coldest winter in 65 years . . . The cold wave ended before I arrived here from California . . . I was thankful for that in view of the fact I ran into heavy rains on the Coast and on my way East . . . It was so cold in Florida that millions of dollars worth of vegetables and citrus have been destroyed . . . Prices of oranges and grapefruit should go soaring this year with California getting most of the benefit.

During the cold spell people who were fortunate in having extra blankets kept them locked in their homes when not in use . . . All portable gas and electric stoves were sold out in Miami . . . There was such a heavy drain on the gas supply for heating purposes that for one day it became exhausted, and all restaurants relying upon gas for cooking purposes were obliged to close . . . Bobby Goldman insists Dave Wilson, who has never lived through a northern winter, used the rugs as well as the blankets and his coat to keep himself warm at night . . . Thousands of people returned to their homes in the North where they could turn on the heat and laugh at snow and blizzards . . . Before the season closes many of them are expected to return for a splash of Miami sunshine and a dip in the ocean or in Biscayne Bay.

Lily Pons Has Some Chinese Food

I SAW LILY PONS, opera singer, having dinner at Ruby Foo's Chinese restaurant at the beach . . . One can see more celebrities at eating places than by a visit to Hollywood . . . While at the Mardi Gras in New Orleans, Wallace Beery was one of the most frequent visitors to the coffee room at the Hotel Roosevelt . . . Eating in swanky spots is one of the chief relaxations of the stars of stage and screen . . . Incidentally, Ruby Foo's place here is a gold mine with waiting lines at dinner time . . . There is a special late supper for the boys and girls who like to step around the town.

Walter Kiley, who was formerly associated with the sports-staff of this newspaper, is doing publicity for the Florida bureau which has headquarters at St. Augustine . . . This new service is controlled by Ray McCarthy, brother of Bill McCarthy, who books the football games for Tom Yawkey and Eddie Collins at Fenway Park.

The Daily Racing Form and Morning Telegraph, controlled by Moe Annenberg, have notified Morse code operators that they are going to discontinue telegraph service, and install teletypes for their race track service . . . All Boston newspapers have used teletypes from the New England race tracks for several years . . . In New England, teletype costs are lower than telegraph tolls provided there is a heavy file.

The Wofford Hotel, with a dining room facing the beach, now invites the public to drop in and have breakfast or luncheon . . . The Toney Plaza is getting a good play from the public with its Cafe de la Paix, a board walk cafe where one can get a full course meal or just a scotch and soda . . . The dolls dressed in their highly colored tailored slacks, attractive slippers and trick hats like this spot . . . And you cannot blame them.

Midnight Deadline

Big Derby Entry Seen

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 15 (AP)—That fellow hurrying to the mailbox down the corner today might be one of a hundred-odd horsemen with one eye on a Kentucky Derby victory and the other on tonight's midnight nominating deadline for the annual classic May 4.

Unlike some of the nation's other big turf events, there is no supplementary nominating for the Derby. Entries postmarked after midnight might as well be in the dead letter office.

PLAN TO SHARE WEALTH

Indications are plentiful that a record list of colts and fillies will be named for the 66th running of the top-ranking three-year-old race, but chief among them is Churchill Downs' "share-the-wealth" Derby program.

The purse has been upped from $50,000 to $75,000 and not only will owners of the first three horses share in the distribution but breeder and trainers—for the first time—will get their "cut" of the cash awards.

EXPECT 140 TO BE NOMINATED

Col. Matt Winn, president of Churchill Downs and an old hand in the Derby business, believes 140 horses will be nominated for this year's race. Last year there were 115 nominees.

But he declines, with thanks, to disclose the names of horses whose names already have been dropped into the box.

BIMELECH SEEMS SURE

It seems a good bet, however, that Col. E. R. Bradley, whose four Derby triumphs hold a record, will have several hopefuls in the list headed by his ace, Bimelech. Other strong probabilities are Roman Flag, Andy K and Carrier Pigeon.

The list of nominees will not be announced for several weeks.

Midnight tonight also is the deadline for other feature races on the Downs spring meeting which opens April 27 and continues through May 18.

De Correvont Won't Shift

EVANSTON, Ill., Feb. 15—(INS)—Bill de Correvont, Northwestern University's backfield ace, today put to rest rumors that he was getting the local school.

De Correvont admitted that last month he had wired a friend in Los Angeles regarding his possible enrollment at the University of Southern California, but this notion he now has discarded, the football player said.

De Correvont had been reported dissatisfied with his own showing with the Wildcat eleven last year, and with the showing of the team, which won only three of eight games after having been touted as likely National champion.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 15 (INS)—University of Southern California officials today were emphatically on record as being "uninterested in Bill de Correvont."
